Resignation Predicted This Week

Will Agnew Resign . . . Or Won't He?

SPIRO AGNEW
. . . is he resigning?
(UPI TELEPHOTO)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Republican party leader says he is "99½ per cent certain" that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will resign, the Washington Post reported today.

The unidentified "senior Republican figure," who said he spent four hours with Agnew late last week attempting to talk him out of the decision, predicted the resignation may come this week, according to the newspaper.

The Post, however, said Agnew staff members and political supporters were highly skeptical that the vice president would step down.

One unnamed associate of Agnew's said the resignation would be "unthinkable. I would be shocked ... flabbergasted."

Agnew was notified Aug. 1 by U.S. Attorney George Beall that he was under investigation as part of an inquiry into alleged kickbacks by Maryland contractors to state political officials. Agnew said he was innocent.

The Post said Agnew repeatedly refused requests from the newspaper for either an interview or a direct comment on his reported discussions of resignation. Agnew, according to the Post, said he would not respond to stories from unnamed sources.

J. Marsh Thomson, the vice president's press secretary, told UPI that he believed the story to be "very far off the mark."

"I did consult closely with the vice president when I first heard about this," Thomson said, "and I am quite sure that this is not all what he plans to do."

E. Howard Hunt Jr. cites coercion and asks to change plea from guilty to innocent in Watergate bugging case. Story on page 3.

"I don't regard this current story as having any more to it than the many others that have been coming and are getting undue attention due to the current atmosphere," Thomson said.

GOP National Chairman George Bush, in Cincinnati for a convention, said the report "comes as a surprise to me." He added that he had heard nothing of it prior to leaving Washington Monday evening.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson has according to several news reports decided to allow a federal grand jury in Baltimore to begin looking into allegations that Agnew was involved in political kickback schemes while serving as Baltimore County, Md., executive and governor of Maryland.

Richardson, however, has reportedly not decided whether to seek indictment of the vice president. The Justice Department has so far neither confirmed nor denied the reports.

The grand jury will begin meeting Thursday. Those close to the investigation have been tight-lipped about what the panel will specifically consider.

According to the GOP source, his conversations with Agnew convinced him that the vice president was "determined to prove his innocence" of the charges of alleged bribery, extortion and tax law violations."

But, the source told the Post that Agnew gave two reasons for believing he should step down before getting involved in a full-scale legal defense.

The source said that Agnew cited the "terrific tension and pressure" placed upon his family and indications that the White House wants the vice president to resign.

Kissinger's Nomination Gets Committee Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today approved the nomination of Henry A. Kissinger to be secretary of state.

The committee voted 16 to 1 to recommend Senate confirmation of President Nixon's choice to succeed William P. Rogers.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said he voted against Kissinger as a symbolic protest against prolongation of the Vietnam war.

Kissinger, German-born former Harvard professor, is to retain his position as assistant to President Nixon for national security affairs.

Confirmation by the full Senate could come within the week.

The nomination was cleared for a committee vote with a report Monday by a two-member subcommittee that Kissinger's role in national security wiretapping "was not such as to bar him from confirmation by the Senate."

The report was filed by Sens. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J. and John Sparkman, D-Ala., who received an FBI summary of electronic surveillance of 13 government officials and four newsmen between May 1969 and February 1971.

Kissinger told the committee publicly that the telephone taps were recommended by the FBI and the attorney general to determine the source of leaks of national security information, and that he was required to identify individuals who had access to information of the type leaked.

The committee made public a two-paragraph conclusion of the Case-Sparkman report.

The two senators said the fact that the administration made the FBI summary available to them, after first resisting, "is a good omen for the development and continuation of the mutual trust which must exist between the Department of State and the executive branch in general and the Congress if the foreign policy of the nation is to have maximum support of the American people."

Details of the actual FBI report were not released, but Sen. William Fulbright, Democrat of Arkansas, told newsmen that a "sanitized" version of the proceedings at today's closed-door session would be made public including parts of the meeting that dealt with the wiretapping.

Members of the committee had wanted to insure that Mr. Kissinger had not been involved in having taps made on the phones of persons who had no conceivable role in national security. He has testified that he supplied names of persons who had access to secret information that had been leaked to the press.

The committee, which has long been at odds with the Administration, has been seeking a commitment from Mr. Kissinger that it would have a fuller role in the making of foreign policy.

Newburgh Schools Open Despite Strike

By JON POWERS

NEWBURGH

Teachers in the Newburgh City School District walked the picket lines for the second consecutive day today, while negotiators for the disgruntled union members and the Board of Education traded angry retorts far from the bargining table.

Negotations broke off early Monday morning, and the Association voted to strike several hours later. All classes in the district's 19 schools began normal operations Monday morning, but students at Newburgh Free Academy (the high school) and two junior high schools were sent home at noontime because of insufficient supervisory and teaching personnel.

All classes resumed again this morning, and district officials promised that all schools in the district would continue to operate during the duration of the strike.

In the meantime, neither side has given any indication that a movement back to the bargaining table is imminent. School district officials have emphatically stated that talks won't resume until the teachers end their strike and return to the classroom. The NTA, on the other hand, has promised that the strike will continue until negotiations are resumed.

Meanwhile, 13,000 students in the Newburgh school district received instrution Monday and today from substitute teachers, administrative personnel and an undetermined number of union members who are not participating in the strike.

Figures on the number of teachers who have walked off the job vary, depending on whether the union or the administration is providing the statistics.

John Dicesare, superintendent of schools, told The Freeman that "about 400" teachers participated in the strike on Monday, and that "a number of them are again participating today (Tuesday) in this illegal job action." He said it was too soon to tell how many teachers stayed home today.

But spokesmen for the NTA said that more than 600 of the district's 830 teachers struck on Monday. The NTA has a membership of 772.

If the tone and content of Dicesare's statements are any indication, the school district appears adamant in its stand that negotiations won't resume until the strike is ended. We've asked the NTA to stop this illegal job action and return to the classroom," the superintendent said today. "When they do, we will consider that an act of good faith, and resume the negotiations."

But John Wolner, president of the NTA, said today, "We have unequivocably rejected that offer. It's merely another dirty trick on the part of the administration . . the strike will not end until a bilateral agreement is reached."

Wolner said the union received no contact today from the administration regarding a return to the bargaining table. "That's been typical of their attitude throughout this situation," he stated. On Monday, Wolner went to the Board of Education offices and demanded that talks resume. They didn't. Today, Wolner told the Freeman that the teachers are as "strongly united today as we were yesterday."

Wolner also took exception with DiCesare's statement that students were continuing 'o receive adequate educational instruction. He said instruction in the city's schools for the past two days has been "a farce." Added Wolner, "They're watching a lot of football movies at the high school, and a lot of cartoons in the elementary schools, and that's about all they're doing."

The dispute centers around an index clause already included in the teachers' contract which provides percentage raises on a sliding scale depending on the experience of each individual teacher. The teachers want a two-year index plan included again in this contract, and claim the school district is pressing for a one-year index. But, according to the superintendent, "We have never said that we want to eliminate the second year index. The teachers walked out before we even finished discussing the first year index."

Congress May Phase Out UR

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Kingston's Urban Renewal Program would be phased out in five years if the Better Communities Act now before the Congress is passed. And, Ulster County and Kingston will will be among those counties and cities in the country "who won't get a cent" under the act's special revenue sharing formula, Chamber of Commerce members here learned today.

Louis Grumet, chief of local government research for the New York Office of Local Government, addressing the members at a breakfast meeting in the Gov. Clinton Hotel, said that the Kingston area would be heavily impacted in that the entitlement formula for special revenue sharing. Under the act money is provided only to cities over 50,000 population and counties with more than 200,000 persons, minus city population. The formula would also affect neighboring Orange and Dutchess Counties, whose populations, like Ulster's do not come up to that level.

Grumet explained that urban renewal and model cities programs such as in Poughkeepsie would be phased out with the localities receiving the same amount of money as they do now, for the next two years and then they would be reduced by a third for each of the remaining three years.

Other programs such as open space and Housing and Urban Delevopment water and sewer programs would also be phased out under the act.

Asked if he thought the measure would pass Congress, Grumet said he did not know, but that if it does, counties such as Ulster and cities like Kingston should be prepared.

He said his office would like to "help you get ready" with technical assistance. "It would be a shame to have to make a decision in two minutes," he suggested.

Recalling that "no one was ready for revenue sharing" when it quickly passed Congress after having been talked about for years, Grumet said the Better Communities Act raises serious questions as whether communities should go it alone or perhaps get together to deliver joint services.

Grumet pointed out that special revenue sharing funds differ considerably from general revenue sharing funds which the county and city have been receiving and will continue to receive, he believes. Special revenue sharing funds are for restructuring existing programs while general revenue sharing funds are "new money."

Grumet also pointed out that under the Better Communities Act formula, counties such as Westchester, with larger population will benefit greatly and in fact will receive more money each year as the smaller city programs are phased out.

Panel Explains State's Drug Laws

KINGSTON

An exploration into the possible ramifications of New York State's new drug laws was taken Monday with an assemblyman, a district attorney and a drug commission head explaining to area educators and students just what the new law will mean here in Ulster County.

"People want the drug nightmare ended," said Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.).

"If we had adopted such stringent measures a long time ago, maybe we wouldn't have the drug problem today," offered District Attorney Francis J. Vogt.

"Most drug treatment people "basically' agree with the governor's new drug law," Michael K. Wood, administrative director of the Ulster County Drug Commission suggested.

And, the young people and the educators had many questions. Some wanted to know just how stiff the penalties will be under the new law. They wanted to know if a principal of a school had a right to search a student or his locker if it was suspected he or she had a drug in their possession.

Bell said that before the new drug law was announced the State Drug Commission received about 30 calls a week on its hot line. At last count, the calls have reached 1,700 in one week with an average of 100 calls a week referred for treatment.

Vogt said he favors the present new drug law over the one originally proposed by the governor which he thought was perhaps unworkable. He said he has no faith in the present rehabilitation programs in state prisons and hopes that the state's new tough drug laws will drive the price of drugs so high and the punishment so severe that hard drugs will become almost non-existant.

Questions and answers on the state's new drug law. See page 4.

He suggested that "you have to be a prosecutor to realize how much people fear going to the penitentiary."

Vogt has found that already wholesalers are having a much more difficult time getting "people to handle their stuff for them" and feels it is because of the stiffer penalties promised for anyone found in possession of an eighth or more of an ounce of a drug.

The district attorney explained in detail just what is now cause for arrest and what the possible penalties will be. Booklets and charts outlining the aspects of the new statute were distributed to those attending the seminar. It is expected that the students attending the session will return to their schools and impart any knowledge gleaned from the seminar to their fellow students.

Wood, who outlined the history of drug problems, which go back to 5,000 B.C., said that as long as there is no coordinated program of enforcement as well as treatment, only one-half of the problem is being solved.

Wood suggested that methadone, properly controlled is an aid to heroin addicts and told of the state's encouragement of counties who have undertaken their own drug control programs. Just about 100 per cent state funding of drug programs is available to all counties including Ulster.

Wood said his commission hopes to offer a broader program next year and told of the Narcotic Guidance Council's present service of a 24-hour switchboard in Ulster County which offers help to those wanting narcotic guidance. It is handled by "Family" of Woodstock under contract with the commission.

Among those in attendance at the seminar were Health Commissioner Dr. Bartholomew Dutto, George Jacobson, chairman of the Ulster County Drug Commission, County Legislator Lewis Hall (R-Dist. 2) and Republican candidate for the Legislator (Dist. 2) and Educator Stephen Hyatt.

Bid Awarding Next Week on Two Fire Trucks

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The Board of Fire Commissioners is expected to render a final decision early next week on the purchase of some $125,000 worth of new fire trucks following bid openings at Central Station on Monday night.

The Commissioners advertised for two trucks, a 1,250 gallon pumper and a 100-foot aerial ladder truck.

Three bids were received on the pumper with Ward LaFrance of Elmira apparently the low bidder at $44,672. Hahn Motors of Elnora, N.Y. bid $46,195 on the pumper and Seagrave Fire Equipment Co. of Elmira bid $47,500.

Seagrave submitted the only bid on the aerial ladder truck and that was in the form of a combined bid, including the pumper, for a total of $127,500. City fire officials are interpreting that to mean $80,000 for the aerial ladder truck alone.

City specifications required that the aerial ladder truck fit into the Fair Street Station, in effect, forcing bidder to custom design a (smaller) truck. "We specified that the apparatus had to fit in the station house," Acting Chief Robert L. Maines told The Freeman. "The other bidders indicated that they could not design a truck to fit."

The city has had problems with trucks fitting in the Fair Street Station, which was built in 1857. In 1968 the city took delivery on a "snorkel truck" for the Fair Street Station. It didn't fit and was returned to the manufacturer. The snorkel truck was 49 feet long; the 100-foot aerial designed by Seagrave is 36 feet long. If accepted by the commissioners, it will be used to service the city's tallest buildings, the County Office Building and the two hospitals.

Both new trucks, if purchased will be housed in the Fair Street (Wiltwyck) Station.

A total of $170,000 to pay for the new equipment was authorized by the Common Council at its Sept. 4 regular meeting. Previously, Mayor Francis R. Koenig had written the Council asking that the money be transferred from revenue sharing accounts for the purchase of the trucks.

Koenig, in his message to the Council, asked for $150,000, for the purchase of two trucks, the 100-foot aerial and the 1,250-gallon pumper, but the aldermen added another $20,000 for three 750-gallon pumpers to be housed at Cordts Hose Company Station, Rapid Hose Company Station and Wicks Hose Company Station. All three stations are manned by volunteers and all three stations have equipment that is at least 20 years old. The Wicks truck is a 1947 500-gallon White pumper; Cords and Rapid both have 1951 500-gallon Dodge pumpers.

The price on the 750-gallon pumpers the Council authorized for the three volunteer stations "depends on what you want," according to fire officials, but the minimum is believed to be "around $18,000."

The city is expected to go to bid next month on the three trucks for the volunteers. "Now that we have a price on these (the aerial truck and the 1,250-gallon pumper) we'll have to work up specifications on those," Chief Maines said.

Maines said that if the city purchased the five new trucks (two new trucks, at a total price of $76,708 were purchased in 1971) that "we'd be in excellent shape. Far better shape than most of the cities in the Hudson Valley and that includes Albany."

Ellenville Seeking Funds For Route 209 Construction

ELLENVILLE — The Village of Ellenville has drafted a letter to Governor Rockefeller requesting that funds be set aside in the proposed Mass Transportation Bond Issue for the construction of a new Route 209 corridor between Kingston and Port Jervis.

The letter, which suggests that both Ellenville and Ulster County have again been "relegated to a second cousin role" in the distribution of state funds, invites Gov. Rockefeller to prersonally visit Ellenville and "inspect for yourself the problems we must contend with."

The letter was drafted by Village Manager Modris Pukulis, and approved by the Village Board at its meeting Monday night. It reads, in part: "We have pleaded for aid for Route 209 for years, but our voices have fallen upon deaf ears. The traffic problems along this highway are borne by every village and town between Port Jervis and Kingston. . .

"Although the specific programs for Ulster County have not yet been released to us, we are saddened to hear that only $1 million of a $3.5 billion plan will directly benefit our county with .77 per cent of the population of this state is receiving only .03 per cent of the monies to be expended for New York State transportation.

"Although your plan of keeping subway fares down in New York City is a fine one we cannot help feeling that this will be made possible at our expense. We only ask you for a fair appraisal of our problems before poor planning magnifies them."

In other action, the Village Board approved a new two-year contract with the 15 members of the Ellenville Employes Association, which includes personnel in the water, sewer and street departments. The contract calls for a 5.5 per cent wage increase this year, and a cost of living increase next June.

The village board also approved bids for chlorine and salt, and voted to raise the salary of the assistant police chief (George Sheeley) from $10,322 to $11,207 per year.

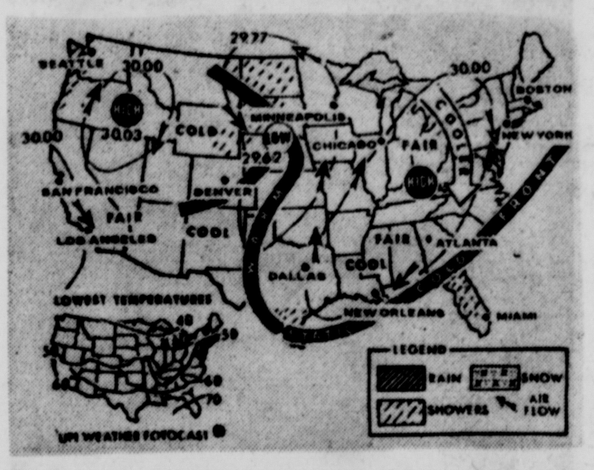

Esopus Board Tables Decision

PORT EWEN — The Town of Esopus Zoning Board of Appeals has reserved decision on two applications for variances that were the subjects of public hearings Monday night.

The first hearing dealt with an application for a variance that would permit construction of a three-store and four-apartment complex at Hamilton Street and Broadway. The variance was request because "insufficient" off-street parking is included in the plans.

The second hearing dealt with an application to build a one-family residence on Route 213 in Rifton in an area zoned general commercial.

There were no objections to either application at the respective hearings. The Zoning Board of Appeals reviewed each application and, according to law, will announce its decision within ten days.

Hunt Cites Coercion, Wants to Change Guilty Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — E. Howard Hunt Jr., the former CIA agent and spy novelist who pleaded guilty in the Watergate burglary, now wants to change that plea to innocent, saying it was "coerced" from him by "outrageous" government conduct.

Hunt's lawyers Monday asked U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica to allow him to change his plea and to dismiss the charges of conspiracy, burglary, bugging and wiretapping on which he is now serving a provisional sentence of 35 years in a federal prison at Danbury, Conn.

His attorneys argued that he should be allowed to change his plea because the government "suborned and concealed perjury," broke into his White House safe and destroyed evidence that might have helped him.

They also argued that the burglary and bugging of Democratic headquarters at the Watergate June 17, 1972, "flowed directly and lawfully from the President's office" and was justified by national security, or that Hunt at least thought it was and therefore lacked criminal intent.

In other developments:

—The Senate Watergate committee was scheduled to meet in private today to plan its next round of hearings beginning next Monday.

—Donald H. Segretti, a 32-year-old California lawyer, agreed Monday to plead guilty to a new, four-count indictment in Florida, accusing him of conspiracy and illegal distribution of anti-Democratic campaign material.

—Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., said officials of the Treasury Department, which operates the Secret Service, invoked the doctrine of executive privilege and refusd to "confirm or deny" to him a newspaper report that President Nixon's brother, Donald, was wiretapped by agents.

Hunt's petition, similar to one filed recently by four Miami defendants who also had pleaded guilty in the case, claimed that his constitutional rights "were violated by the outrageous conduct of the government in depriving him of valuable evidence."

It said two of his notebooks "disappeared" and cited the removal of papers from his safe and their subsequent destruction by acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray, along with false testimony which has been admitted by former aides Jeb Stuart Magruder and Herbert L. Porter.

Hunt's petition conceded he was "responsible" for planning the Watergate break-in. But it said he had been told by co-defendant G. Gordon Liddy and others that the effort was approved by then Attorney General John N. Mitchell to seek evidence of campaign contributions to the Democrats from "foreign governments."

Assistant Special Prosecutor Richard Davis told a seven-minute court hearing Monday that Segretti was "now being cooperative with the government." The indictment to which he agreed to plead guilty broadened and superseded a two-count indictment returned against him in Florida last May.

It accused him of distribution, without disclosing the source, cards attacking Gov. George C. Wallace in the 1972 Florida presidential primary, reading: "If you like Hitler, you'll love Wallace . . . vote for Muskie."

Another count charged distribution of posters stating, "Help Muskie, Support Busing Our Children now." Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, was then a candidate.

UAW Voting on Ratification of Contract

DETROIT (UPI) — Despite tentative agreement Monday to end its strike against Chrysler Corp., the United Auto Workers said today assembly lines probably will not roll again until next week.

This, said UAW President Leonard Woodcock, is because it will take the rest of this week for national and local officers to approve the settlement and it must then go before rank-and-file workers for ratification.

Under the contract, the UAW won a breakthrough 30-and-out retirement plan and obtained relief from mandatory overtime rules.

In turn, workers will receive less money than they wanted.

Woodcock called the non-money issues in the contract a "tremendous breakthrough," especially the introduction of a system that will allow employes to retire on a pension after 30 years' work regardless of their age.

Pending ratification of the settlement, about 113,000 blue collar workers remain away from work.

Still working, although negotiations continue on a contract covering them, were about 15,000 white collar workers.

The announcement Monday of the three-year contract came just 63 hours after the UAW called the strike in 22 states and Canada. It was the fastest settlement in UAW history. The previous record for brevity was nine days in 1955 against Ford Motor Co.

Agreement came after nearly 30 hours of marathon bargaining, interrupted only once for three hours when negotiators said they showed signs of weariness.

Besides the 30-and-out retirement plan, the major non-economic feature of the contract concerned the mandatory overtime that automakers can demand of workers.

Under the new contract, workers can refuse to work more than nine hours a day or more than 54 hours a week or more than two consecutive Saturdays. But the company retains certain limited rights to impose mandatory overtime.

Pay will increase 3 per cent yearly in each of the three years of the pact, less than the UAW sought. Woodcock said the cost of the package was "very, very high" for the UAW because of the non-money concessions Chrysler made.

The UAW, which will take essentially the same agreement to Ford and General Motors Corp. for contract talks with them, gained increased fringe benefits in holidays, insurance and medical benefits and improved health and safety checks in plants.

UN Accepting East, West Germany

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — East and West Germany gain full membership today in the United Nations, the world organization created at the end of World War II by the conquerors of Nazi Germany.

Entry of the two Germanys was the major item of business before the General Assembly on the opening day of its 28th annual session. A third country, the newly independent Bahamas, also was up for admission, giving the United Nations a membership of 135 countries.

The only announced opposition to the Germanys was Israel, and it was opposed to East Germany only because the Communist regime refuses to pay reparations for Nazi crimes against the Jews and is militantly pro-Arab.

The United States and other allies of West Germany dropped their long-standing opposition to East Germany as a result of the Big Four accord on Berlin and the normalization treaty between the two Germanys last year.

Admission of the Germanys symbolized the relaxation of tension in Europe in contrast to other areas of concern nowadays to the United Nations.

As the assembly members gathered for their midafternoon opening, the Security Council went into its second day of meetings on the military coup in Chile.

Political Deadlock in Sweden

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Premier Olof Palme, faced with a potentially paralyzing political deadlock, said Monday he would not rule out the possiblity of forming a coalition with the major opposition party.

The opposition Center party, which scored major gains in elections Sunday, said however, there was no chance of working together with Palme's Socialists.

Both the opposition and the Palme's Socialist coalition emerged from the parliamentary elections with 175 seats each. The Socialists, who have ruled Sweden for 41 years, had a two-seat majority in the outgoing parliament.

Officials said the difference in votes between the two blocs —Social Democracts and Communists on one side and three non-Socialist opposition parties on the other—was only a razor-thin fifteen hundredths of one per cent.

Center party leader Thor Bjoern Faelldin, who would become premier in a non-Socialist government, ruled out any possibility of forming a Center-Social Democratic coalition to break the deadlock.

Palme, however, did not rule out a pact with his political enemies and said "one cannot reject the possibiliy since it's in the constitution."

State's New Drug Law... Questions and Answers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Since the state's new narcotics law went into effect Sept. 1, there have been many questions about its scope and penalties.

Here are some questions and answers on the highlights of the new law:

Question: Is the new law harsher than the old law?

Answer: Much harsher. For example, judges now are required—required to impose "life" sentences on convicted sellers of hard drugs such as heroin or cocaine.

Q: A "life" sentence? That sounds pretty tough.

A: It could mean life in prison. Or it could mean a year in prison.

Q: A year in prison? That doesn't sound like a life sentence to me.

A: Ah, there's a catch. If a person is released from prison, he is placed on probation for the rest of his life. This applies to large-scale possessors of hard drugs, too. Make no mistake, a convicted drug peddler must be sent to prison, and he could stay in prison for the rest of his life.

Q. Is probation pretty tough?

A. It can be. Your every activity is subject to the scrutiny of your probation officer. You can't leave the state or even get married without permission. And if you're ever in trouble with the law again, back to prison you go, maybe for the rest of your life.

Q. Okay, I understand. But can you be more specific about the amount of time a person will have to spend in prison?

A. It depends on how much drug is involved. For example, the seller of more than an ounce heroin is be sent to prison for at least 15 years and can be imprisoned for the rest of his life. If he is convicted of selling one-eighth of an ounce to an ounce of drug, his prison sentence must be at least six years and maybe as much as life. For selling less than that, the minimum prison sentence is a year.

Q. For possessors too?

A. Again it depends on how much drug is involved. The prison term is at least 15 years for possessing more than two ounces of a hard drug, at least six years for possessing more than an ounce, and at least a year for possessing less than an ounce.

Q: We've talked about hard drugs. How about LSD?

A: The same general rule applies. All sellers and possessors must be sent to prison for at least one year and possibly as much as life. The severity of the sentence depends on the amount of the drug that has been sold or possessed. Upon release from prison—if the defendant is released—a seller will be on probation the rest of his life. This rule also applies to sellers of amphetimines and stimulants, by the way.

Q: How about marijuana smokers? Will they be sent away for life?

A: No. This drug has its own special penalties. The seller of any amount of marijuana can be sentenced to prison for one to 15 years. However, it is possible that he could plead to a lesser charge and not go to prison at all.

Q: Hold on. Let's go back a minute. You said "plead guilty to a lesser charge" to avoid a prison sentence for selling marijuana. Well, how about the sellers of hard drugs? Can't they plead to a lesser charge and escape a prison term?

A. I'm sorry. I forgot to tell you. The law places a striction on plea bargaining for sellers of hard drugs. If you're indicted for selling a hard drug—or LSD for that matter—the law forbids you to plead guilty to a lesser charge to avoid a prison term.

Q. All right. Let's go back to marijuana. You told me about marijuana sellers. How about marijuana smokers—the people who don't sell marijuana, just get it and smoke it or who have it in their possession?

A: The penalty varies according to the amount. A person caught with a single cigarette in his possession could be sent to jail for the year. But no jail term is required. The judge has the option of placing the defendant on probation or dismissing the charge altogether after a period of good behavior.

Q. You mentioned a single cigarette. How about several marijuana cigarettes, or hashish?

A: I'll answer the second question first. Hashish is treated the same as marijuana in the new law. The penalty for the possession of marijuana depends on the amount. The possessor of a quarter-ounce to an ounce of marijuana or 100 cigarettes can be sent to prison for up to seven years. For more than that amount, he can be imprisoned for up to 15 years. Either way, the judge has the option of simply placing the defendant on probation without sending him to prison.

FBI Chief Talks On Prostitution And Gambling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Law enforcement officials must expend time and effort on victimless crimes such as gambling and prostitution in order to prevent a takeover by hoodlums, FBI director Clarence M. Kelley said today.

In an interview with UPI, Kelley said that in the areas of narcotics, gambling and prostitution "there is too much chance for hoodlums to take over, and neglect by the police merely serves to milk the public dry..."

"When crimes without victims become an open field," he added, "it can become a playground for hoodlums."

So-called crimes without victims, including homosexuality, have become the subject of debate in recent years. Many critics have said police spend too much time on them at the expense of fighting more serious crime.

Kelley, former police chief in Kansas City, Mo., has headed the FBI for two months. He discussed his philosophy in a wide-ranging interview which included his opinion of the Mafia, FBI agents overseas, women agents and safety in the streets.

Kelley said that, despite concerted efforts by law enforcement agencies, he is discouraged by the extent of progress against organized crime.

"Certainly the Mafia families are still operating," he said. "Just like you saw in the movie The Godfather, the operations are passed on from father to son. The old men say they don't want their sons to lead their life, but the fact is there is lots of money to be made in organized crime. I think we know who is in the so-called 'business' more than we used to because we've forced them to come out in the open more. They've been forced to run legitimate businesses like everyone else to meet expenses."

Kelley also said:

—He plans to continue a program which has placed 41 FBI agents in U.S. embassies overseas "to keep an eye on America's interests," despite congressional objections that the FBI is supposed to be only a domestic operation.

—He will continue recruiting women agents, of which there are now about two dozen in the FBI. Enlistment of women has fallen off.

—His major goal in office is make the nation's streets safer. "We've got all of these liberties and how do we enjoy them?" he said.

Merchants Eye Promotions for Uptown Section

KINGSTON

Promotional possibilities including a radio jingle and more signs to point out the way to the uptown part of Kingston were discussed at the September meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association.

It was reported at the meeting that the coupon promotion of the area was "fairly successful." The radio jingle, to be played over all the local radio stations, would cost about $400 and is to be investigated further.

The necessity of more signs to find the uptown area was discussed. The association will check with the New York State Department of Transportation concerning a ruling on signs on a highway.

The possibility of instituting a permanent sound system is also to be investigated.

City Street Program Detailed

KINGSTON — The city's 1973 Street Program, budgeted at $150,000 of which some $87,000 has either been expended or obligated, will be finished by late October "under normal conditions," Department of Public Works Superintendent Charles J. Cole told the Freeman today.

"Under normal conditions, we'll definitely be able to complete it this season," Cole said, speaking of the annual capital construction program, which though previously unannounced, has been underway since April.

Some $46,000 worth of work under the 1972 street program was also carried out this year, the biggest job being the $29,500 reconstruction of St. James Street Between Clinton Avenue and Fair Street. Also included in this year's work, but charged to the 1972 street program were the repaving of Lindsley Avenue, ($4,850), Pettitt Avenue ($6,200) and Deyo Street ($5,800).

The bulk of the 1973 street program remains to be done, however. Cole blames heavy rains in the spring and summer of this year for his crews being behind schedule. In fact, only some $28,000 of the 1973 street program is completed; a $6,790 job on Marius Street (repaving) from Greenkill Avenue to Glenn Street, a $9,000 repaving job on the full length of Howland Avenue and the recently completed $12,000 repaving of Wiltwyck Avenue between O'Neil Street and Elmendorf Street.

Supervisor Cole says the department is now doing some "preliminary work" on Ohio Street involving regrading and surface treatment on that semi-improved street at an estimated cost of $3,700 and that drainage improvement work on Delaware Avenue between the Cordts Hose Firehouse and North Street is underway. Overall cost of that job, which will include repaving, is estimated at $11,000.

Other jobs on the drawing board for this year are:

Ora Place, off Downs Street to where it deadends; reconstruction of right of way and improvement and installation of guard rails along the embankment bordering the railroad tracks. Estimated cost: $3,000.

Grandview Avenue Extension from Main Street to its deadend; repaving. Estimated cost: $4,200.

Tietjen Avenue; repaving of entire street. Estimated cost: $6,100.

Ulster Avenue between First and Third Streets; repaving. Estimated cost: $6,0000.

Stuyvesant Street between Hasbrouck Avenue and Maple Street; repaving. Estimated cost: $2,000.

West Pierpont between Montrepose avenue and Adams Street; repaving. Estimated cost: $15,600.

Spruce Street from Ravine to near Hudson Street; repaving. Estimated cost: $7,500.

GOP Candidate Night

KINGSTON — More than 25 Republican candidates are expected to attend a Candidate's Night planned for Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Gov. Clinton Hotel under the sponsorship of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club, according to Marguerite Derringer, chairman of the event.

Among those planning to attend are Judge Robert C. Williams of Sullivan County who is seeking a Supreme Court Judgeship in the Third Judicial District which includes Ulster County. Also incumbent Republican Ulster County Family Court Judge Hugh R. Elwyn and GOP candidate for a second Family Court Judgeship, Bernard Feeney Jr.

A welcome will be given by Mrs. Brendon D. Alexander, president of the club. Mrs. Derringer will be assisted on her committee by Mrs. James Rapp, Mrs. Emma Aprea and Mrs. Robert W. Davidson.

Judge Williams, who has served as Family Court Judge in Sullivan County, was born on a farm in that area and attended a one-room schoolhouse. His college career was interrupted twice oy service with the U. S. Army in Korea. He graduated from Bates College in Maine with a BA degree in 1952 and received his bachelor of laws degree from Brooklyn Law School in 1955. He practiced law in Monticello for many years and is a member of the Sullivan County and the New York State Bar Associations.

City and county candidates are also expected to attend the Candidate's Night. The public is invited at 8 p.m.

Fire Chief Test Set

KINGSTON — Acting Fire Chief Robert L. Maines gets his last chance at a non-competitive test for fire chief on Nov. 10 while as many as 12 Kingston police officers may be eligible to take the examination for deputy police chief, The Freeman learned today.

The Kingston Municipal Civil Service Commission announced the examination for deputy police chief last week, a position now held on an acting basis by former Detective Sergeant William Slover, but it was also revealed that the examination for fire chief will be held at the same time.

Upon the retirement of Fire Chief James Brett in March of last year, the fire commissioners appointed Maines acting chief while at the same time allowing him to take a non-competitive test for fire chief. Maines failed to pass the examination last November and according to Civil Service regulations, will be allowed to take the non-competitive exam one more time. A passing grade (at least 70 per cent) would probably result in Maines being named as permanent chief. If Maines fails it would force the commissioners to offer a competitive examination.

Slover was appointed acting deputy police chief by the Police Commission (Mayor Francis R. Koenig is president of both the fire and police commissions) to replace Deputy Chief Francis Fagan who retired this spring after more than 25 years' service

Civil Service officials estimated that "about 12 men may be eligible" to take the test, with Slover, for deputy chief although there are indications that some of those men, which include most of the department's lieutenants and sergeants, may not apply to take the test. In order to be eligible for the test, a lieutenant must have served for at least 12 months in that grade on a permanent basis while sergeants must be in permanent grade for at least four years.

Last date for filing applications for both exams is Oct. 10.

The Civil Service Commission is also offering an examination on Nov. 10 for recreational leader, a job that pays $8,000 a year. At present there is one vacancy in the Kingston Recreation Department. Last date for filing is Oct. 10.

The written examination will test applicants' knowledge in recreation principles and practices, specialized recreation activities, special games and sports and first aid.

KHS Offers Courses In Adult Education

KINGSTON — Adults in Kingston and surrounding areas who lack a basic education have an opportunity to attend classes at Kingston High School beginning September 24.

The program, funded by the federal government, is now in its sixth year. Classes will be held every Monday and Thursday throughout the school year from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Robert J. Boening, basic education program director, said that adults who lack an eighth grade education may now be able to sharpen their skills to a point where they may qualify for the New York State High School Equivalency Diploma. A special appeal is also made to adults who have recently entered the United States to enter the program, which may also assist them in both speaking and reading English.

Registration will be held at Kingston High School, Room 105, at 7 p.m. on Monday, September 24, and registration will also be accepted at each class meeting throughout the year.

For further information call Kingston High School (331-1970) and inquire about the basic education program.

Ulster's Grey Panthers

Some 200 grey panthers, attended an Ulster County Program for the Aging Committee last Friday, and demonstrated that being a senior citizen does not preclude the blessing of common sense and abundance of perception.

Impressing the legislators, including the committee's chairman Raymond Armater, as possibly the best organized pressure group to come before the Legislature in many a moon, these citizens demonstrated that they had lost none of their perceptiveness, especially on the issues which vitally involve them.

What was before the group was a proposal to establish on Office for the Aging, supported by state and federal monies. This agency was to replace the successful Senior Citizen Alliance, that is funded exclusively by the county.

With the sagacity that comes with the years, our senior citizens overwhelming voiced disapproval of the new agency, citing fears of bureaucratic interference as their main reason. Ulster County's grey panthers, feeling they had a good thing right now are not about to unawaringly buy a pig in a poke.

Shortages in Schools

School openings finds pupils short of many necessities, even as their parents are, and they also have to make cutbacks to make do.

For instance, the gasoline shortage means many school districts have had to curtail trips in school buses, and may curtail busing football and basketball teams to play their games.

Looking ahead to the heating oil shortage expected this fall and winter, parents are advised to put in a supply of sweaters and warm slacks for their children to wear in the cool classrooms.

The shortage of paper now noticed in small newspapers will mean many kindergartens will have to do with less colored paper for cutting and pasting and getting the first lessons in disciplined work.

The shortage of meat may lead to such devices as the Mecklenburger, made of soybeans, which the school cafeteria at Charlotte-Mecklenburg, N. C., introduced as a substitute for expensive and scarce meat.

But the biggest shortage of all, the U. S. Office of Education says, is that enrollment is down 300,000 from last fall, for a total public school enrollment of 45.4 million and the surplus of teachers which this reduction creates. Citizens are all for education, but when they see their taxes go up and up and enrollment down and down, they rebel. They want taxes to come down, too, and they must, or else the taxpayers revolt will be accelerated.

QUOTATIONS FROM CHAIRMAN SAM—Just 17 days short of Senator Sam J. Ervin Jr's. 77th birthday, 400 persons, including state and national Democratic leaders, lauded the chairman of the Senate Watergate committee at a testimonial dinner in his honor at Drexel, N. C. The dinner favor consisted of a book placed at each diner's place, titled, "Quotations From Chairman Sam" emulating the famous Red book, "Quotations From Chairman Mao" of China, who is more than two years older.

THE FEMALE CONTINGENT — Princeton University, an Ivy League, will have a female population of 1,200 to about 3,200 men this year. The freshman woman creating the most concern in Imelda Marcos, daughter of President and Mrs. Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines, complete with security guard. Living off-campus her classmates fear she will not be able to enjoy Princeton as others do.

SENATOR PERCY'S CHANCES — Speaking at Cleveland, Senator Charles H. Percy of Illinois said that it would be much tougher for him to get the Republican nomination for President than to be elected President, but it would be the other way around for Vice President Agnew, California's Governor Ronald Reagan or New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller. That's one way of promoting his chances of both.

YALE WOMAN PROVOST — Hanna Holborn Gray, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Northwestern University, has been appointed Provost at Yale University. A trustee at Yale for two years, she will be the first woman given the spot, usually the training post for president, as it was for Kingman Brewster Jr. She will be the chief educational and financial officer

Letters From the Watergate Four

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The four Cubans who were caught inside the Watergate in the crime that has rocked the nation have written some poignant letters from prison.

Although they were recruited to do the dirty work and then were abandoned behind bars, their letters aren't bitter.

"All things considered," wrote Bernard Barker to his daughter, Maria Elena Moffett, "we are all pretty damn lucky people."

Another Watergate prisoner, Frank Sturgis, wrote to his wife Janet: "I've been thinking of you constanly and dream of you always. Keep your chin up baby. Things will somehow work out."

Reluctant

The letters were shown to us by friends of the four. Although Barker and Sturgis were reluctant to let the world read their personal sentiments, they gave us permission to quote from the letters.

Barker, for instance, called upon Watergate ringleader E. Howard Hunt inside the White House and came away with the impression that the Watergate breakin and the earlier Los Angeles burglary of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office were national security assignments.

Afterwards, the Cubans wound up in prison while those who plotted the Watergate crimes remained free.

Yet on Father's Day, Barker wrote to his daughter and her husband: "If you are of those selected few that will know real happiness in life. Your mother and I have it, and you two have it now and should have it more than us because you don't argue the way we do."

Special Smile

Again on August 24, he wrote to his daughter in Spanish: "I have always been proud of you, but now I walk around with a special smile on my lips since now it also includes your husband. . . ."

He concluded the letter with this rueful apology: "Well, my love, receive all the love from your problematic progenitor, a relic of a problematic generation that has been unable to give more than what it has and that can only distribute its problems."

Sturgis wrote hopefully to his wife about a visit from Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., one of the Senate Watergate committee. "I think he wants to help us somehow. I hope so He may come back to see us again," wrote Sturgis.

He explained to the senator, Sturgis told his wife, how "the CIA trains men to infiltrate industries past their security guard and if caught, say nothing because someone will make contact and bail us out and if anything happens, it common knowledge that your family will be taken care of.

Hunt was Chief

"No one spoke to us about that, but our chief was Howard (Hunt) — ex-CIA official and White House aide. We thought it was gov. operation and it may still be one."

The senator "feels that the three of us took orders from Macho (Barker) and thinks Macho is holding back." related Sturgis. "We three do not know if that is so but the Sen. has an idea that he may know something on that order."

Hunt was taken away to testify on August 16. Reported Sturgis to his wife: "Howard has not returned as yet. Everybody thinks he is talking his butt off. If he is, he can only help us and not hurt us."

But Sturgis wound up cheerfully: "We still may win this yet. Keep the faith, honey! I love you always."

Buckley's CIA Role

Perhaps the most fascinating reference was to columnist William Buckley.

"I don't know if I told you before," Sturgis wrote to his wife, "but William F. Buckley used to work for CIA and I don't know if he still does. When he found out that Howard (Hunt) was going to work in the White House, he told Howard it was good that he could be so close to the President but Howard told him that he was there to take orders and not to influence anyone.

"That was a good answer! I'm not clear whether this is what Howard or Buckley really said."

Reached for comment, Buckley frankly admitted he was a "deep cover agent" for the CIA from July 1951 to March 1952, but said he had not worked for them since. He declined to say what his CIA role was.

Reluctant Regulator: When Charles King Mallory, a young New Orleans lawyer, was named as the Interior Department's power resources chief, Interior's publicity mill ground out a press release praising him for his dedication to "public utility . . . securities regulation (and) antitrust" activities.

The implication was clear that the Administration at last had found a consumer advocate to ride herd on the energy moguls.

In fact, the new deputy assistant secretary is not a consumer lawyer at all but one who represented Louisiana Power and Light which is charged in consumer suits with antitrust violations and conspiring against consumers.

Although several of Mallory's other clients were also lined up against the consumers, Mallory assured us that his publicity men "had no intention to mislead" in their handout on him.

"We Brought You a Little Lift from the Boys at the Office!"

On the Right

A Politically Moot Point

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

Senator Kennedy has given a speech on the floor in which he declares himself on what should be done in the event that Mr. Nixon should refuse to turn over the tapes even if ordered to do so by the Supreme Court. At that point, said Mr. Kennedy, there's only one thing to do: impeach him. The Senate chamber, according to reports, was very nearly empty while Senator Kennedy delivered his speech, though at the far corner of the room someone spotted Senators Goldwater and Tower. Goldwater did not proffer his opinion of it, but Senator Tower said, "So far, the refusal to obey a court order has never been grounds for impeachment. There is no precedent."

That of course is correct, but so is it correct that the only historical precedent for impeachment of a President was in the case of Andrew Johnson, and not only did Congress fail at conviction, many years later the Supreme Court spoke flatly on the issue in question and declared retroactively that Johnson had been absolutely right. So that we are left without any precedent at all for the impeachment of a President.

Senator Kennedy's point is that no man is above the law — that, he says, is the fulfillment of the American idea. And since the Supreme Court is the final arbiter of what is the law and what is not the law, then a President who defies the Court should be impeached and removed.

Friends of executive sovereignty in the event of impasse argue that the federal system simply does not provide a means of arbitrating frontier collisions. They argue that the Supreme Court, in the event it calls on the President to publicize the tapes is exerting its full authority. But that since its full authority does not exceed the President's full authority over the management of his own department, and the custody of the tapes is really the responsibility of his own household, then the Court goes beyond its proper field of responsibility and the President is entitled simply to thumb his nose at it.

What is interesting about Senator Kennedy's position is that in effect he is suggesting a political solution to the impasse, and it's to be understood as being that, rather than as a sequential ritual following upon the Supreme Court's decision. What Mr. Kennedy is saying is that when the Court and the Executive are at loggerheads, the third chamber of government needs to act, and the only way it can act is to impeach, and to proceed then to hear out the arguments.

Presumably, if the Senate, sitting in judgment of President Nixon's refusal to hand over the tapes, declined to convict him, then that would become the supreme law of the land in respect to executive privacy. I.e., at no future point would a President's personal papers be subpoenaed notwithstanding that they contained evidence putatively critical in establishing his guilt or innocence. The Senate, in a curious sort of way, would become the ultimate judicial body — not so much interpreting the Constitution as adding to it the critical insight of the day.

There is a lot of mumbo jumbo that surrounds the Supreme Court. There is, after all, no reason at all to suppose that the lawyers who are arguing on Mr. Nixon's side know anything less about the intricacies of the Constitution than the lawyers arguing the other side, the side of Mr. Cox and Mr. Ervin.

Indeed, the chief representative of Mr. Nixon is a professor of constitutional law, and there is no reason to doubt the sincerity of the position he takes, just because he is taking it as the advocate for so august a client. Nor is there any reason to jump to the conclusion that the sitting members of the Court know more about the Constitution and its implications than the two lawyers whose arguments it is listening to.

For that reason one can say that the real point is moot — an historical, constitutional point. When these things happen there are only political solutions. Such a solution as would result in the Senate of the United States having to decide whether to remove from office a man who declines such an order as this from the Supreme Court.

It would seem, of course, there are other solutions. Mr. Nixon might decline one day and a few weeks later, well into the impeachment proceedings, he might change his mind — disposing of the tactical, if not the strategic, issue. In a word, Senator Kennedy, whatever his motives, suggested the only means of breaking the impasse widely projected.

The Nation

Recounting the Agony of Chile

By MARTIN F. NOLAN

WASHINGTON — Salvador Allende was a ladies' man, a man of learning, a fancier of fine wines, a man of hot impulse and a student of confrontation. He did not deserve to die.

The reaction of North Americans to military coups d'etat in Latin America have become ritualized, stylized, as programmed as Big Ten halftime ceremonies.

Around the White House Wednesday a picket line formed to denounce official complicity in murder and fascism.

At the New York Stock Exchange, the news from Chile sent Anaconda Copper stock up almost two points.

Liberal editorialists mourn another death of democracy; conservatives don't exactly gloat, but mutter "I told you so."

At the White House, everyone is nervous, especially Gerry Warren, the President's principal spokesman.

Asked the source of the President's knowledge of events in Santiago, Warren assured reporters that newspapers and the wire services were the principal sources of information for Mr. Nixon.

This assertion was made despite the fact that a week earlier, the President swore in the new director of the Central Intelligence Agency, William Colby, by asking him "when anything is going to happen, or does happen, that the CIA could tell me before I read it in the papers."

Warren flatly denied any CIA involvement in the coup, but he could not speak for International Telephone and Telegraph.

ITT's attempt to influence Chilean politics through the CIA has been documented in Senate hearings, but its board chairman, Harold Geneen, can be expected to mourn Allende as piously as a pro-junta archbishop.

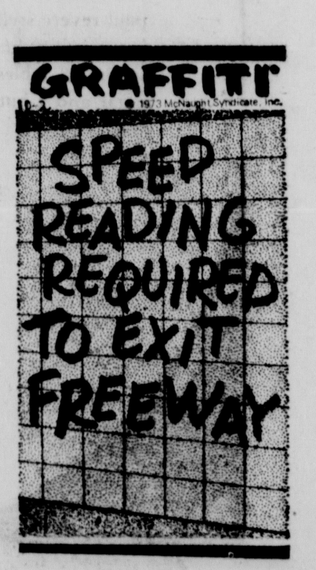

The deaths in Chile are a tragic reflection of the ambivalent role of American foreign policy. As Henry Kissinger told his Senate confirmation hearing in another context, American officials live in a time when their every motivation is being questioned.

Allende's troubles probably came from his own middle-class constitutents whose strikes paralyzed his government. The role of "dollar diplomacy" was probably incidental.

President Nixon's attitude toward Latin America has been nebulous, but his restraint toward Alende's avowedly Marxist philosophy was as remarkable as it was restrained.

If America is not to be the policeman for the world, neither can it be its philosopher. That may be the painful lesson of Chile's agony, a lesson that transcends all ideology.

And for most Americans, the political Gethsemane for Chilean democracy was probably best expressed by the late John Gunther, who said: "Americans will do anything for Latin America, except read about it."

Decision Against IBM...Impact Could Be Staggering

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) —For the first time, a smaller computer company has been successful in an antitrust suit filed against IBM, and computer analysts believe the long term effects of the decision could stagger the monolith of the industry.

"If IBM doesn't win its appeal this matter could be damn serious," Stover Babcock of the Dreyfus Fund said.

The immediate effects of Monday's $352.5 million decision in favor of Telex Corp., an Oklahoma-based computer company, was to send IBM's stock down $26 a share to $272 on the New York Stock Exchange. Telex shares nearly doubled, rising $3.88 to $7.63 a share.

U.S. District Judge A. Sherman Christensen, in a 217-page decision, granted a $352.5 million award to Telex and ordered IBM "to halt its unit price tactics, which competitors claim forces customers to accept systems comprised entirely of IBM components.

IBM's unit price practices, Telex said, effectively shut off the market for their compatible units which can be used with IBM systems.

The loss was the first in court against IBM and industry spokesmen said the outcome could bring a deluge of similar suits by smaller peripheral data processing firms. But nothing will be known until the appeals are settled.

"The impact could be widespread in the industry if IBM losses (the appeal), and it will be at IBM's expense," said John Moffat of Blyth, Eastman and Dillon. "Uniform pricing could hurt IBM and help some of the peripheral companies."

Economist Eliot Janeway said "The Democlean sword hanging over all the big corporations seems to have fallen somewhat in the direction of the jugular."

Christensen also awarded a smaller counter claim of $21,013,776 to IBM which claimed Telex had infringed on IBM copyrights. Telex attorneys said they might appeal this judgment and may also pursue an international antitrust suit against the computer giant.

"We're quite pleased with the outcome and feel that Telex's decision to pursue this litigation has been fully justified," Telex President Steven Jatras said. "In view of the court's ruling with regard to the domestic claim, it is the intention of Telex to vigorously prosecute the foreign aspects of the case, which were severed from the domestic issues during pretrial preparations and which are still pending."

THE HAPPY FATHER (UPI TELEPHOTO)

'What's Another One'... Father of Sextuplets

DENVER (UPI) — Doctors believe the four boys and two girls born to an accountant's 34-year-old wife, who took fertility drugs, can successfully buck odds of 496,980,450 to 1 and be the first sextuplets of the century to survive.

"Their chances are excellent," Dr. Tibor Engel said Monday evening. "They are in excellent condition."

Pediatrician James Strain said the next 48 hours are important in determining the odds for survival of the babies which range in weight from 2 pounds, 15 ounces to 3 pounds, 11 ounces. One of the girls was treated with a respirator, but Strain said respiratory problems are not unusual in babies born seven weeks prematurely.

Children Born Sunday

The first child was born at 10:45 p.m. Sunday and the other five were delivered by Caesarian section from 11:34 to 11:38 p.m.

"We're very happy," Eugene Stanek, 31, the dazed father said. "For the past month or so, we knew there would be five and maybe six."

They had prepared for the eventuality by picking out six names, three for children of each sex. The girls have been named Julia and Catherine and three of the boys are John, Stephen and Jeffrey.

"We still need one more (boy's) name," Stanek said. "We agreed on three for each sex but it didn't work out that way."

He said they expected a multiple birth because of the fertility drug, which Mrs. Stanek took before she got pregnant. The couple has one other child, a 4-year-old boy.

"When you're talking about numbers like that, what's another one or two?" he said. "We live in a three bedroom house now, so I guess we'll go house hunting shortly."

Odds 496,980,451 to 1

Engel said the odds for birth of six babies at the same time were 496,980,451 to 1. Engel, the attending obstetrician, said he knew of no other case in this century in which all six infants survived. Reference books say there have been at least 12 cases of sextuplets in the 1900s, but none survived.

"This is an historic event," Engel said. "So far it looks just terrific."

Engel said Mrs. Stanek is in satisfactory condition and "pretty cheerful. Her attitude has been just delightful."

The infants will remain in the hospital at least six weeks.

Stanek saw his six new children during the afternoon.

"They're a little thin and have some hair on top," he said. "That's an awful lot of tax deductions."

Three BLA Leaders Arrested After Shootout

NEW YORK (UPI) —Shotgun-carrying police stormed a slum apartment building Monday night to break up a nest of Black Liberation Army (BLA) leaders and fought a 15-minute gunbattle before the suspects surrendered. Three police officers were shot but not seriously wounded.

"It looked like a battlefield in there," said Detecive Eric Coulhurs, who was in the first wave of officers.

Three accused leaders of the terrorist group were arrested and charged with various shootings, robberies and police killings. Three women and a two-week-old baby were also taken into custody in the raid.

"With this raid, nine of the top 10 leaders in the Black Liberation Army have been arrested," said Police Commissioner Donald Cawley. "We have put a monumental dent in the operation of the BLA."

The apartment, in the Bronx, was splattered with blood and riddled with bullet holes.

"It is simply a miracle no one was killed in there," said Detective Harold Shriver, who led the raid.

Police said they recovered a machine gun, hand revolvers, pistols, automatics and shotguns, and BLA literature including the "Mini-manual of Urban Guerrillas."

Police had staked out the apartment for 10 days after months of investigation.

"We knew the BLA leader who shot a transit officer was in there, and we hoped to take them all by surprise," said Capt. William Bauer.

The gunbattle raged for 15 minutes while the three women huddled with the infant and armed BLA leaders in a rear bedroom of the apartment, Coulthurst said. "Then it let up a little, and one man crawled out with his hands up and surrendured. Then they all gave up."

Those arrested were Avon White, 22, Melvin Kearney, 27, and Robert Hayes. Kearney and White had been indicted with seven other BLA leaders on charges of murder and robbery.

Kearney was also wanted in the ambush slayings of two police officers in the East Village, and Hayes was wanted for the June 5 murder of policeman Sidney Thopson.

Rule Insurance Firms Must Pay For Bombed Jet

NEW YORK (UPI) — Insurance companies will have to pay for a $24.2 million Pan American jumbo jetliner blown up by Palestinian terrorists in 1970, U.S. District Judge Marvin E. Frankel ruled Monday.

The insurance companies will also have to pay about $5 million in interest accrued since the Boeing 747 passenger jet was destroyed at Cairo three years ago, Frankel ruled.

About 30 U.S. and British insurance companies involved in the suit argued they were not liable because a loss due to capture, seizure or war was excluded from coverage.

But Frankel said the language of the policies was ambiguous and where doubt exists as to precise meaning, "interpretation favors coverage rather than exclusion."

The case involved the hijacking by two terrorists in September 1970 of a Pan Am flight from Brussels to New York.

The huge airliner was diverted to Cairo where it was blown up at the airport after the 147 passengers and crew of 24 were let off.

Frankel said the hijacking had "substantially nothing to do" with war or the threat of war in the Middle East.

"This hijacking," he said, "was engineered by a small political group as a random, hastily improvised instance of its propaganda of terrorism."

Jury Selection Starts In Turner-Bailey Case

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Prosecutors and defense attorneys began selecting jurors Monday for the trial of millionaire Glenn Turner, attorney F. Lee Bailey and seven other men on mail fraud charges.

The search for 12 jurors and 18 alternates was expected to last through Wednesday.

Federal Judge Gerald Tjoflat instructed Turner, Bailey, and the others not to talk with reporters, and Tjoflat told the 200 prospective jurors not to read or listen to news reports about the trial.

The defendants are named in a federal grand jury indictment returned last May in Orlando charging them with 28 counts of using the U. S. mails to promote fraudulent business ventures.

The charges concern promotional materials of the floundering Turner financial interests, which included Dare To Be Great Inc., Koscot Interplanetary Inc. and Glenn W. Turner Enterprises Inc.

Tjoflat's "gag rule" also applied to attorneys for the defense and prosecution.

A reporter was greeted cordially at the defense table, but there wasn't much talk about the case.

"We're glad to have you here with us, but I'm not sure how long you'll be able to stay," Turner said. "We're not afraid of the truth."

But when a defense attorney noted that the prosecution might object to having a reporter sitting at the defense table, the newsman returned to the press gallery.

Bailey, of Boston, contends he was only a corporation counsel for Turner and never entered into the business ventures of Turner's firms, but the government claims Bailey was closely involved in the Turner operation and helped promote it.

Turner, 38, the son of a South Carolina sharecropper, built a cosmetics business into a multimillion-dollar international chain of personal motivation courses and sales instruction courses.

Big Banks Join In Rate Hike

NEW YORK (AP) — Several more large banks have raised their prime interest rate to the record-high level of 10 per cent.

The increases from 9¾ were announced Monday despite a governmen request for supporting data from two other major banks that began the current round of prime rate hikes.

Among banks moving to 10 per cent were Bankers Trust and Manufacturers Hanover Trust in New York, Harris Trust & Savings Bank and the First National Bank of Chicago, the National Bank of Detroit and Mercantile Trust in St. Louis.

The latest increases marked the 16th quarter-point rise this year in the banks' minimum lending fee charged to their customers.

The Committee on Interest and Dividends, part of the Nixon administration's economic controls program, has requested data justifying the current increase from Wells Fargo Bank of San Francisco and First National City Bank of New York, which announced late last week that they were upping the prime to 10 per cent.

The prime rate has no direct affect on interest on loans to small business and the general public. But sustained increases in the prime are viewed widely as an indication that all lending rates are headed higher.

Anti-Nuclear Group Meets

NEW PALTZ

The New Paltz Citizens Watch on Nuclear Safety, which has been formed in response to the proposed building of a nuclear facility in the Town of Lloyd, will hold its first public meeting Thursday, Sept. 20 at 8 p.m. in the Community Room of the First National Bank of Highland at New Paltz.

The meeting, which the group says will be brief, will consist of informational talks on various aspects of atomoic energy and the potential dangers of nuclear plants in populated areas.

The group says it is important that all citizens be aware of the scientific, health, and zoning problems presented by these facilities, so that all citizens can then choose whether or not to allow such a facility in the community.

Saugerties Dispute Over DPW Worker

By CARL GRAHAM

SAUGERTIES

The Saugerties Village Board refused Monday night to revoke the suspension of a Department of Public Works employe who said he was unjustly laid off by the DPW superintendent.

Robert Wolven was suspended for three days without pay by William Voerg, DPW superintendent, after he reportedly called in sick on his village job and then reported that night for a second job he holds.

Trustee John Freligh said that considering the village pay scale it wasn't unreasonable for a man to have a second job to make ends meet, and asked why a suspension had been given in this particular case.

Mayor Vernon "Joe" Bejamin said that Voerg had been superintendent for more than 20 years and that he wouldn't question his judgment in suspending Wolven. Freligh then moved to reimburse Wolven for his suspension time but the motion failed for lack of a second. The board decided to discuss the matter later in executive session.

The $3,994 bid submitted by James J. Dargan Inc. of Saugerties for a new police car was accepted. The Dargan bid, the only one received, included a $500 allowance for the village's 1970 patrol car but the board declined the offer after Erika Hinchey, the police commissioner, said that police needed the old car for a radar unit.

Warren Sweeney presented a petition with 79 signatures calling on the board to close the village landfill off Ulster Avenue. Petitioners said that the landfill was a breeding place for rodents that invade nearby homes in winter, that smoke and odors bother residents of the area, and that it made no sense to maintain it when the village could use the town landfill and at the same time eliminate an eyesore. Benjamin said the board would study the matter for action later.

The biard received a letter from a Buffalo developer offering the village the former A and P building on Overbaugh Street in Barclay Heights.

The developer suggested that the one-story building, now vacant, could be used for a medical building to help attract doctors to the area.

Board members said they felt the $14,000 annual rental or the $125,000 purchase price were too high for the village alone, but that they would investigate the possibility of a joint venture with the town.

Mrs. Hinchey suggested that the present parking ban on the west side of Partition Street be changed to the east side. She said the change would give cars going up the hill more room to maneuver when the street is covered with snow.

The board voted to ask the State Department of Transportation to conduct a study and to also investigate the possible widening of the street on the hill by condemation of portions of private properties there.

The board voted to have village assessors reassess the Mertens estate on Sawkill Street in back of Simmons Park. Board members said they felt the estate, originally formed by a Queen Anne grant, might be under-assessed, since land has been added by purchase throughout the years.

Criticism of Paltz Zoning

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

The proposed changes in zoning for the Village of New Paltz received criticism in three major areas at the public hearing on them held in New Paltz Monday night.

The changes, which are major in scope and are the product of about a year's work by the village planning board and its consultant, Ralph Seligman of Mayo, Lynch, and Associates, were criticized for setting up an apartment zone on Plattekill Avenue, a single-family home zone along Route 32 North, and raising the lot size requirement for dwellings in the historic zone.

The apartment zone for Plattekill Avenue generated the most heat. The street runs along the north edge of the State University College at New Paltz, and the aim of the planners was to encourage college - related housing in that section, cutting down on car traffic in the village and helping to separate the college-oriented culture from the quiet residentially-oriented culture of the rest of the village.

Dr. William Hageny, a resident of the street, raised the specter of "privately-owned college dormitories." The residents of the street, which is mainly single-family homes, seemed especially worried about small "mini-dorms" being erected on individual plots on Plattekill.

Seligman said that could not happen, since a developer could not start with less than eight dwelling units, and had to meet density requirements. Trustee John Logan said that would mean developing a whole block-front at a time.

William Rhoads said the trend on Plattekill may be away from rooming houses for students. He pointed out that his home had been a rooming house for students before he acquired it, but he was now maintaining it as a single-family home.

The single-family home district on Route 32 North was criticized because it was so much at variance with what presently exists in the zone. In the zone now is the swimpark of the New Paltz Park and Recreation Association, an apartment complex, and several businesses.

Seligman said the land in question was proposed for single family homes because it was surrounded on three sides by similarly zoned land in the Town of New Paltz. He pointed out that the existing uses would not be affected by any zoning changes. He also noted that light industrial use ws permitted in the zone (R1) on a parcel of more than eight acres, with planning board approval.

Local resident John Shulte owns about 10 acres of land in the historic zone on which he intended to build 23 homes. If the new density schedule for the zone, which decreases the number of units per acre in the zone from six to two passes, he said he would be limited to 15 or 18 allowing for road coverage.

His protest against the change was tied in with the raising of the number of units allowed in the R3 multi-dwelling district from six to 12. He said this allowed the condominium builders an unfair competitive advantage, and that the village did not need that many apartments in any case. He said he could accept the historic zone density change as long as multi-dwellings were limited to their present six uints per acre.

Shulte had a good deal of support for his anti-apartment stand. Among those favoring him was Richard Corwin, who said, "If we've reached the saturation point, why not admit it."

Seligman defended the move to the higher density for economic reasons, saying that many units per acre were necessary for a developer to provide lower rent units, and preserve a good mix of housing for the village.

The village has had a moratorium on building in those sections affected by the proposed changes, and it expired Oct 1. Mayor Henry DuBois said after the meeting that he was not sure if the board of trustees could act on the changes before then. He said any move to extend the moratorium would be "a decision of the board."

Business Director Resigns at Onteora

PHOENICIA

The Board of Education of the Onteora Central School District Monday night accepted the resignation of Charles H. Knipple, assistant superintendent for business affairs.

Knipple cited personal reasons for his resignation, which is effective October 29. Dr. Frank Marlow, superintendent of schools, said that the district is now actively searching for a replacement.

Knipple was named to the post in March, filling a vacancy created by the resignation of Dr. Donald Carson.

Knipple came to the district from Dun and Bradstreet Inc. of New York, where he was employed as a municipal research analyst. He has served as a teacher and middle school principal, administrative principal and school business administrator in New Jersey schools and as superintendent of schools and business manager in Hadley, Mass.

The board saw a presentation by Miss Janet Faughnan, dean of girls, on innovative methods of recognizing individual instruction at the Phoenicia Elementary School, where the board meeting was held. Miss Faughnan illustrated her talk with slides and graphic presentations.

The board adopted a streamlined set of regulations relating to the hiring of substitute teachers. Dr. Marlow said the new regulations include all major provisions of previous regulations.

Gloria Plasker was appointed reading teacher at Woodstock Elementary School and Joel Thompson was appointed a general science teacher at the high school in Boiceville.

SAUGERTIES, N.Y. (AP — Two town policeman on night patrol reported seeing a huge, shimmering ligh' hovering over the New York State Thruway today.

"It lasted maybe 15 seconds, and then disappeared," Peter Karashay said. The town policeman estimated the light to have a radius of about 100 miles.

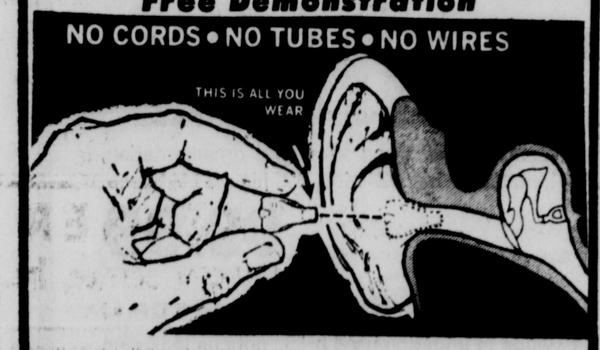

No other reports were received from Ulster County residents of the sighting, but Karashay and Howard Ostrander said they were sure of what they saw.

"They were pretty shook up about the whole thing when they got back," the police dispatcher told a newsman.

New Law Aids Aged and Disabled

POUGHKEEPSIE — Many aged, blind, or severely disabled people in the area who are in financial need can receive payments under a recently enacted federal law, according to Lou Glasse, director of Dutchess County's Office for the Aging.

This new program, called "Supplemental Security Income," is designed for those persons who have little or no regular cash income and who do not own much property or other valuables. For example, owning a home of reasonable value will not rule out eligibility for this program.

Mrs. Glasse urges all elderly, blind, or disabled persons who are not receiving public assistance at the present time and who think they might be eligible, to get in touch with their Social Security Office.

For people in Dutchess County, the office is located at 33 Academy Street, Poughkeepsie, 452-3400.

Inadequate income is the major problem affecting the elderly," said Mrs. Glasse. "In these days of rising prices, those persons on fixed incomes are the hardest hit. Inadequate income countributes to most other problems such as inadequate housing, transportation, heatlh care, and nutrition. We hope the Supplemental Security income will assist people for whom lack of money has turned living into an uncertain day to day existence."

Although supplemental income payments will not start until Jan., 1974, the Social Security Office has started to accept applications in order to process them ahead of time and assure prompt payment.

This new program designates the Social Security Administration to take over the cash assistance programs for the aged, blind and disabled formerly handled by the County Department of Social Services.

Those now receiving welfare payments will not have to apply again. Their payments will continue automatically at their present levels.

The amount payable will be $130 to an individual and $195 for a couple .New York State will add to this basic payment depending on individual need and state standards. No one will receive less in benefits than before the federal takover.

Marist College Expands

POUGHKEEPSIE — Marist College has started its academic year with five new majors, an expanded graduate school enrollment, and a freshman class of 350 students.

In addition to the Class of 1977, 130 transfer students are also at Marist. In all, more than 1,600 full and part time undergraduate students are registered.

The graduate school, which offers masters degrees in business administration and community psychology, began its second year of operation with an enrollment of 150 students.

New majors are bachelor of science degree programs in accounting, criminal justice and applied solid state physics, and bachelor of arts degree programs in communication arts and Russian.

The physics program is geared toward professionals in the solid state physics field, such as engineers and physicists. Criminal justice enables holder of associated degrees in police science or corrections administration to broaden their professional backgrounds with studies in the humanities and behavioral and social sciences.

In addition to traditional orientation addresses by administrators and social programs, this year's orientation program included "task-oriented" activity groups.

Led by student advisors, commuters, faculty, staff and upperclassmen, these groups included workshops in theater, art, poetry, music, and radio, as well as an environmental project and a seminar on how to prepare term papers.

Elected with Coughlin were James Brennan, vice-president; John Kiernan, secretary; Anthony DeSantis, treasurer; and Raymond Sadowski, chaplain. Both Brennan and Sadowski were prisoners of war for 10 months before escaping back to the American lines.

Among the guests at the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Ravelet of Veriaville-sur-Mere, France, who for the past 29 years have taken care of the park and monument dedicated to the Rangers who assaulted the beach on D-Day, June 6, 1944. Another guest was the Rev. Albert Basil, a British Catholic chaplain, who transferred from the British Commandos to the Rangers, where he served until they were deactivated in 1944.

Plans are now in progress to return to the coast of Normandy next year to honor the 30th anniversary of D-Day, Coughlin said.

ART OF WEAVING will be demonstrated by Mrs. Raymond Bostwick of Red Hook during the upcoming Arts and Crafts Show and Sale sponsored for the third year by the Northern Dutchess Hospital Mothers' Club. Mrs. Bostwick, who has enjoyed the hobby of weaving for years, will have her own loom at the show and will personally answer questions of those attending. Mrs. F. Warnimont is general chairman of the event.

Craft Show in Dutchess

The Northern Dutchess Hospital Mother's Club is completing plans for its third annual Arts and Crafts Show and Sale. It will be held at the Dutchess County Fairgrounds on September 22 and 23. The hours of the show are from noon to 9 p.m. on Saturday and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Admission will be very nominal.

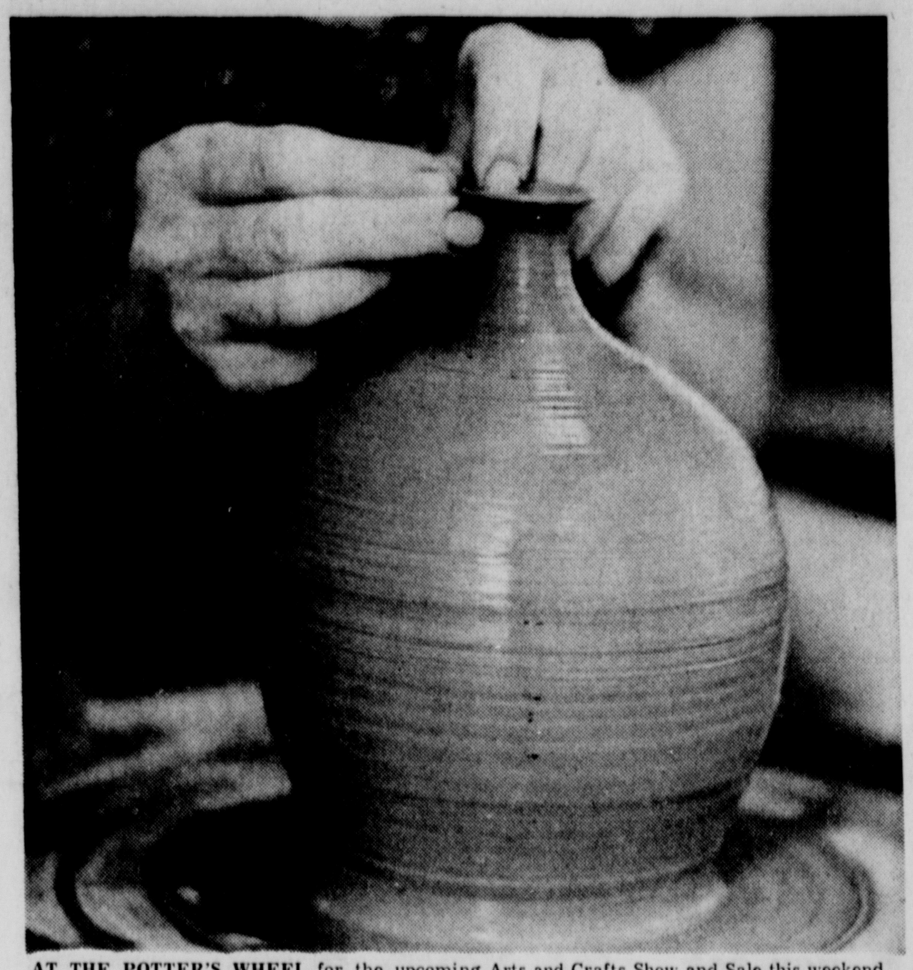

Committee chairmen are planning awards and a Kiddie Corner for the purpose of occupying young children while parents are browsing for craft items. The refreshment booth will be opened both days of the show.

At least 35 exhibitors will be showing arts and crafts in this show. Some items will include jewelry and sculpture, hand spinning, ceramics, silver drafts, crushed glass ornaments and floral arrangements.

Also on exhibit will be pen and ink drawings, pencil portraits, doll clothes, Oriental art, stained glass and macrame.

Exhibitors will be attending from the areas of Woodstock, Bearsville, Ellenville, Red Hook, Rhinebeck, Kingston and Saugerties. This year, exhibitors from Long Island, New York City and New Jersey will also attend the show.

General Chairman Mrs. F. Warnimont also mentioned that most of the craftsmen will be demonstrating during the show. The show should prove to be a pleasent outing for the entire family.

AT THE POTTER'S WHEEL for the upcoming Arts and Crafts Show and Sale this weekend at the Dutchess County Fairgrounds will be Mrs. Lee Levy, resident of Long Island and Rhinebeck. Mrs. Levy, who maintains a shop in Long Island, will have various pieces of pottery on display. The exhibit is sponsored by the Northern Dutchess Hospital Mother's Club.

Sixth Annual Freeman Tea

Letters of invitation to the Sixth Annual Freeman Tea sponsored by the Women's Department have been mailed, according to Dorothy A. Narel, women's page editor.

Those planning to attend are urged to notify the Women's Department this week. The tea will be given at the new Ramada Inn, Route 28, Kingston, N.Y.

A publicity workshop and open question and answer period will be part of the program. It is recommended by the Women's Department that club presidents and their publicity chairmen use this opportunity to exchange ideas and suggestions and learn how to publicize worthwhile projects.

Cleveland-Sickles Vows Exchanged

MRS. WILLIAM G. SICKLES
(Candace Mae Cleaveland)
(Photo Workshop)

Candace Mae Cleveland of New Paltz and William G. Sickles of Highland were married Sunday, Sept. 16 at New Paltz United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Craig Haight officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Kenneth Baumgartner provided traditional wedding selections.

The bride is the step-daughter and daughter, respectively, of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Neilson of New Paltz. She is also the daughter of the late Sidney Cleveland. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Jessie Sickles of Highland and the late Arthur S. Sickles.

Given in marriage by her step-father, the bride selected a nylon organza gown with embroidered lace accents on the bodice. The gown was styled with an Empire wasitline and A-line skirt which terminated in a full chapel-length train. She wore a nylon organza Camelot cap with pearl crown and carried a cascade of white carnations and yellow rose buds.

Michelle Cleveland of Accord, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor in a blue knit and taffeta gown. She wore a blue Juliet veil and carried a colonial bouquet of white, yellow and blue pompons.

Bridesmaids were Jackie Hurt, Lauretta Schrauer, both of Highland; and Margaret Doski of Newburgh. They wore yellow chiffon and taffeta gowns with Empire waistlines accented with embroidered flowers; yellow hats; and carried Colonial bouquets of blue snowdrifts and yellow pompons.

Cherri Ann Dunham, niece of the bride, was flower girl in a pink gown. She carried a bouquet of yellow, blue and white pompons.

Stephen Gadaleto of Clintondale was best man. Ushering were Ignatius Gadaleto of Clintondale; Lawrence Cleveland, Accord; and Thomas Cleveland, New Paltz, brothers of the bride. Timothy Dunham, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

A reception was given at Chef Jo-Mar in New Paltz.

The bride, a graduate of New Paltz High School and Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services, School of Practical Nursing, is employed by Hudson Valley Nursing Center in Highland.

Her husband, an alumnus of Highland High School, served four years with the Military Police, and is employed by Gadaleto's in Highland.

After a wedding trip to Mystic, Conn., and the New England states, Mr. and Mrs. Sickles will reside at 8 Church Street, Highland.

MR. AND MRS. CLARENCE J. BOWMAN of Parker Avenue, Esopus, observed their 40th wedding anniversary Sept. 2 by renewing their marriage vows at Sacred Heart Church in Esopus. A reception was given by their children in the church hall. Many relatives and friends attended. Mr. and Mrs. Bowman were married in Sacred Heart Church Sept. 3, 1933. Mrs. Bowman is retired from the U. S. Postal Service and Mr. Bowman is retired from Carworth Industries. (Lakeside Studio)

Guest Speaker Is Announced For Legal Secretaries Dinner

Ulster County Legal Secretaries Association, Inc., will hold its monthly dinner meeting Wednesday at Wildwycke Village, Route 9W, West Park. Philip Gurrieri of Kingston Narcotic Drug Council will be guest speaker.

A native of Brooklyn, Gurrieri, in his early childhood was a member of the Police Athletic League, an organization similar in concept to the YMCA youth program. He, his brother and mother moved to Kingston in 1953. While attending Kingston High School, he was active in Hi-Y, serving as vice president.

After graduation from KHS in 1959, he attended Orange County Community College where his educational emphasis was in a business curriculum and his aesthetic emphasis into the fine arts. While attending OCCC he was president of the Jazz Club.

He attended Kent State University in Ohio, earning his Bachelor of Fine and Professional Arts degree in 1963. He also attended the University of Mexico in Mexico City, the University of California at Berkley, and the California College of Arts and Crafts. He received awards for sculpture at the Akron Art Institute and the Cleveland Museum of Art.

In 1970, he operated a sculpture studio in Kingston and was accepted as an active member of the Woodstock Artist Association. During this time, he was researching the psychological effects of soft drugs, and believes that within organized society soft drugs cause a misinterpretation of what is important and a lack of self-respect.

In May of 1972, Gurrieri was awarded a one-man show for his sculptures at the Woodstock Artist Association and was simultaneoulsy receiving his degree from the Dale Carnegie School of Human Relations and Public Speaking.

During the summer of 1972, he took a 20,000 mile trans-America journey in search of a common sense approach to build a philosphy that would re-instate rhyme and reason to the threshold of the 21st century and the Aquarian age. He is in the process of coordinating those journals in book form.

In April of 1973, he was asked to serve on the board of the local Narcotics Guidance Council.

Reservations for the dinner should be made with June Krom or Michelle Schwerdtfeger.

'Wait and See' Attitude Prevails at the Markets

There has been no clear cut trend established and the trade continues its "wait and see" attitude. Meantime, meat prices at retails stores remain fairly steady, according to the Consumer and Market Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

With a further clarification, however, it appears the price fluctuations will continue but the average should be only slightly higher on beef and somewhat lower on pork and poultry.

Sales on beef cuts will be varied and the number increased in some areas of the State, especially hindquarter cuts such as sirloin steak $1.47 to $1.69, cube steak $1.69 to $1.79, rib steak $1.49 to $1.59, T-bone steak $1.77 to $1.99, chuck steak 95 cents, boneless $1.19, round steak $1.47, and round bone shoulder steak $1.27. Some stores will feature boneless chuck roast $1.29 to $1.39, bone in 99 cents, boneless beef brisket $1.49, stew meat $1.19 to $1.29, boneless rump roast $1.69, rib roast $1.49, beef liver 89 cents, short ribs 77 cents to 79 cents, ground chuck $1.09 to $1.19, ground round $1.19 to $1.39, ground beef 89 cents to $1.09, and franks 89 cents to $1.09.

also boneless sirloin tip roast and top round $1.79.

In the pork line, look for sales on pork loin rib portion 89 cents to 95 cents, loin portion $.99 to $1.05, center cut loin roast $1.49, rib end pork chops $1.29, loin end chops $1.39, center cut $1.49 to $1.79, and combination center and end chops 89 cents to $1.19, also country style spareribs $1.19, smoked shoulder picnics 89 cents, fresh 79 cents, cooked ham shank protion 79 cents to 89 cents, butt portion 99 cents and center cut slices $1.69. Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(c) 1973, Emily Post Institute, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post:

I recently entertained some Mormons in my home. Several of the dishes I served had wine in them. Should I have used the wine or should I have substituted something for it?

Mrs. G. L.

Dear Mrs. L.:

Since you knew beforehand that they were Mormons and therefore would not approve of wine in any form, you should have substituted another dish. Next time choose from among the thousands of excellent recipes which do not include liquor of any kind.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week, I will send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman, and don't forget to include your name and address.

Do Implants Leave Telltale Marks?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Can a man tell if a woman has had silicone implants to enlarge her breasts!

I've talked to two girls who have had it done, and one says a man would have to be awfully dumb not to know, because hers feel like grapefruit. She said she's not sorry she did it because they look fine.

The other girl said nobody could tell she had anything done.

Are there any telltale marks? What do your experts have to say about this?

CONSIDERING IT

DEAR CONSIDERING: The girl with the "grapefruit" must have had her implants some time ago when harder materials were used. Softer materials are now used that feel like the real thing.

To answer your question: Whether a man could tell if a woman had had a breast implant would depend on the amount of breast tissue she had before surgery and the way she healed. The only telltale marks are the tiny scars under the breasts, which in time become practically invisible.

DEAR ABBY: This may sound like I'm bragging, and I suppose I am, but this is the way it was:

A couple of weeks ago I was walking past my husband's chair in the living room when he reached out and took my hand and said: "Honey, will you marry me?" (We were married in 1935!) I said: "Are your trying to tell me we aren't married after all these years?" He grinned and replied: "Oh, we're good and married. I'm taking an early retirement, and we're going to start all over again, just the two of us, like we did 38 years ago. If you'd like to go thru another wedding with me, I'd like it, too."

Well, I sat down and bawled. I called a local minister and explained it to him, saying I hoped he wouldn't think it was funny. He said he didn't think it was funny at all, he thought it was beautiful, and he agreed to perform the ceremony for us. (We didn't need another license or blood test.)

My sister, who lives in Bishop, Calif., was my bridesmaid when we were first married, so I called her and asked if she'd do it again. She said: "Tell me when you want me, and I'll be there if I have to take a bus." My brother will be our best man.

This may strike you as nothing special, but it sure means the world to me.

MARRYING DON AGAIN
BALDWIN PARK, CAL.

DEAR MARRYING: I think it's beautiful. Congratulations and God bless you. More couples should renew their marriage vows.

DEAR ABBY: I disagree with a recent correspondent who wrote: "Most cancer victims read the obituaries with apprehension and fear."

My vocal cords were removed by surgery 13 years ago because of throat cancer. Instead of apprehension and fear, I have confidence in the future and enjoy life today.

I am not a victim — but a victor, thanks to the progress that's made the kind of cancer I had curable in almost every instance if detected in time.

JERRY F. CROWLEY

DEAR JERRY: You are a victor indeed, and I thank you for this opportunity to remind my readers to see their doctors for periodic checkups.

Helpful Hints From Heloise

BEAR IN MY TENT!'

Dear Heloise:

We are an avid camping family and have been one for many, many years.

We have learned many "dos and don'ts" and would like to share them with you and your readers.

First of all travel light! Don't pack clothes for two or three weeks. Pack just enough for three or four days.

You can always spend an hour at a laundermat.

When you go to town to buy that bread and milk, do your laundry.

If you have several small children and don't want to invest in suitcases, get some of thoe heavy cardboard beverage cases. These are really great. And the kids can paint them with a cheap water-based paint, put their names on them and will be able to use them for several years because they are are so sturdy.

Always pack at least one real large sheet of plastic. They can be obtained at most lumber or hardware stores.

We use this around the front of our tent, fastened to the awning.

Also when camping with kids, learn to assign them small tasks.

Let them carry water if necessary or take out the garbage to the cans. They will enjoy their vacations if they learn to help Mom, and she will be free to do more with them.

Listen to the music of the birds and the wind in the tree. Listen to the frogs and the crickets. God made this beautiful world and the sights and sounds in them. Enjoy them.

And remember when you take to the open road: Travel light, travel slow, travel mannerly, enjoy yourselves and plan a trip again next year.

MEN'S LIB NOTE

Dear Heloise:

Please join my Men's Lib movement!

I call it liberation from the almost to the knee undershirt. I'm short, and some of the undershirts I get would make a slip for Wilt Chamberlain if he wore kilts.

Just think what a man wears around his hips and middle-shorts, undershirt, shirt, pants, coat and, in the winter, an overcoat of some sort.

We surely don't need that extra eight or ten inches of undershirt that extends below the belt.

I would like to find some that would come just to the top of my pants.

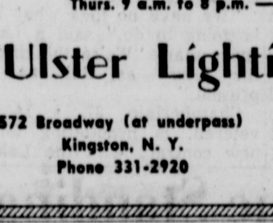

What a saving in material and comfort

Johnson Ties Hornsby Record

Aaron Slams No. 711

By VITO STELLINO

There were almost more guys chasing a pop fly on the pitching mound in Montreal Monday night than were in the stadium in Atlanta watching Hank Aaron hit his 711th homer.

Five St. Louis players converged on a popup to the mound with two out in the ninth inning but they let it drop for a run-scoring single that gave the Montreal Expos' a crucial 5-4 victory over the Cardinals in the hectic Eastern Division pennant race.

Blowing that game cost the Cards a shot at a doubleheader sweep since they salvaged the second game 5-3 in 12 innings. That left them 2 ½ games behind Pittsburgh while Montreal is a game behind.

In Atlanta, only 1,362 fans—the smallest crowd ever to see a Braves' game in Atlanta—were on hand when Aaron hit his 38th homer of the season and 711th of his career to pace the Braves to a 7-0 victory over San Diego.

The crowd was held down by rain before the game but if this keeps up, there may be more baseball officials, newsmen and TV technicians on hands than fans if Aaron hits 714 in Atlanta this year.

St. Louis went into the ninth inning with a 4-3 lead over Montreal in the opener but the Expos tied it on Jim Lyttle's single, a wild pitch and Ted Simmons' wide throw on Felipe Alou's grounder. Alou took second on the play but the game seemed headed for extra innings when Ron Woods popped to the mound.

Pitcher Al Hrabosky, first baseman Joe Torre, shortstop Mick Kelleher, third baseman Terry Hughes and Simmons all converged on the ball but it fell in as Alou scored.

Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst said, "it was a foolish mistake. My team fell asleep on that play. Five players converged on the ball but nobody called it. At the last second, Hrabosky yelled at Hughes to catch it, he made a lunge and missed. The pitcher should have called the man much earlier."

In the second game after an hour and 12 minute rain delay, only about 200 of the 20,168 fans were left when Bernie Carbo singled with two out in the 12th to break a 3-3 tie and lead the Cards to the triumph. There were two on and one out when the game was delayed.

THE BIG TWO — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn throws his arms around Atlanta Braves' Hank Aaron (L) and second baseman Dave Johnson in the Braves' clubhouse Monday night after Aaron hit his 711th career home run and Johnson hit his 42nd home run. Johnson tied a record set by Rogers Hornsby for most home runs hit by a second baseman in one season—42. Johnson also leads the majors in that department. (UPI)

Girls Back Billie

HOUSTON (AP) — "I saw Bobby Riggs on television with Howard Cosell the other night," said Peggy Michael of Pacific Palisades, Calif. "He made me sick."

The girls on the ladies' tennis tour are closing ranks and lining up behind Billie Jean King in Billie Jean's $100,000 match at the Astrodome Thursday night against the 55-year-old hustler from Newport Beach, Calif.

They're all flaunting buttons which read: "Billie Jean Is No. 1."

"I think we'll all die if she doesn't win," said pretty, 20-year-old Kristien Kemmer of Los Angeles. "She just has to win.

Playing erratically in the opening match but picking up steam in the second, Billie Jean beat Cynthia Doerner of Australia 6-0, 6-4 and Miss Kemmer 6-0, 6-2.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Kuhn Invites Hank To World Series

By DAVID MOFFIT
UPI Sports Writer

ATLANTA (UPI) —Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn came to Atlanta to invite Hank Aaron to throw out the first ball of the World Series and got to watch the Braves outfielder move a step closer to Babe Ruth's home run record.

"You're a showoff," Kuhn jokingly told Aaron after Hank hit his 711th career homer Monday night in the eighth inning of a 7-0 Braves' victory over San Diego.

Aaron, who earlier had expressed his displeasure about Kuhn not congratulating him for homer No. 700, said he was really pleased by Kuhn's World Series invitation.

"He and I had a long talk in St. Louis and we've long since made up over that earlier business," said Aaron. "I think it's quite an honor to be asked to throw out the first ball. Mr. Kuhn told me that in the past that honor had been reserved for Presidents or for baseball commissioners."

Kuhn posed for a picture with Aaron and Dave Johnson of the Braves who hit his 42nd homer of the season Monday night to tie a major league record for second basemen set by Rogers Hornsby 51 years ago.

"Here's a bunch of home runs," Kuhn said with a big smile, his arms around the two Atlanta ballplayers.

Aaron's homer, the 38th of the season for the 39-year-old superstar, came off a hanging slider by Padres righthander Gary Ross. The ball was barely fair down the left field foul line, sailing a good 10 feet above the six-foot fence at the 330 marker.

"If the pitch had been good, I'd have pulled it foul," said Aaron. "As it was, I thought all along it had a chance to go out."

Aaron now has 10 games remaining in which to hit three more homers to catch Ruth's 714 record this season and he said, "I'll play as many of them as I can."

"But I'd raher not play if I'm tired," he continued. "In a situation like that, I might do the ball club more harm than good.

"It's not important whether I get one home run, but whether I can help the team. That may sound surprising considering that we are out of the race, but that's the way I feel."

Aaron flied to center, singled to left and bounced out to third his first three at bats Monday night. He was on deck, waiting for a fifth turn to hit, when Darrell Evans flied out with the bases loaded to end the Braves half of the eighth inning.

Aaron said he is looking forward to going to the World Series.

"It's been a long time since I've been to a World Series game," he said, "not since I last played in one back in 1958."

Jets, Mets On Page 24

Aaron has 10 games left in his race to catch Babe Ruth's record of 714 this year. He said he wants to play in as many as he can but he doesn't want to play when he's tired because he's afraid he'll hurt the team.

"The important thing is not whether I get a homer but whether I can help the team. You may not believe this, considering that we are out of the race, but no matter where we stand, that's the way I feel."

Aaron, who's always a good bet to tag San Diego pitchers, connected against Gary Ross in the eighth inning. Dave Johnson also hit his 42nd homer to tie Rogers Hornsby's record for second basemen.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was at the game and said Aaron would become the first player to throw out the first ball at the World Series.

In the other games, Pittsburgh routed New York 10-3, Houston beat Cincinnati 5-2 and Los Angeles routed San Francisco 7-2.

In the American League, Baltimore edged New York 5-4 in 10 innings, Texas routed Chicago 10-3, Oakland nipped California 3-2 in 13 innings and Minnesota beat Kansas City 8-3.

Cesar Cedeno and Bob Watson homered to pace Houston over Cincinnati. Dave Roberts picked up his 15th victory with a seven-hitter while Jack Billingham, 18-9, took the loss.

Willie Davis' homer started a four-run rally in the fifth inning that carried the Dodgers to the victory over the Giants. Don Sutton pitched an eight-hitter to get the win.

Umps Only Threat to Orioles

By MARTIN LADER

Now that all the competitive edge has been removed from the American League, about the only excitement left for the contestants is to challenge the umpires.

That was the name of the game at Baltimore Monday night when the two opposing managers lost decisions to a pair of umpires. By the time the Orioles took a 5-4 decision from the New York Yankees in a 10-inning affair, Earl Weaver of Baltimore and Ralph Houk of New York had been evicted from the premises.

Weaver was bounced by second base umpire Bill Kunkel in the eighth inning for what Kunkel termed "using profanity," and Houk joined him on the sidelines in the ninth after engaging in a violent argument with first base umpire Russ Goetz for disputing a call that would have given the Yankees a victory.

While Weaver took satisfaction in winning the game, he gave full credit to Houk for putting on a better performance against the umpires after watching the Yankee boss dance and scream and throw his hat in the air.

"Houk's the best at that—he can really do it," Weaver said.

Weaver's ouster was his seventh of the year and the third time by Kunkel.

By winning, the Orioles boosted their first-place lead in the AL East to 7½ games over idle Boston and lowered their magic number to six. The situation is just as dull in the West, where the Oakland A's also reduced their magic number to six by nipping the California Angels 3-2 in 13 innings after Kansas City dropped an 8-3 decision to Mnnesota. Oakland leads the runnerup Royals by 7½ games.

In the only other game played, Texas scored five runs in the first inning as Toby Harrah, Bill Madlock and Jim Fregosi all homered and the Rangers went on to rout the Chicago White Sox 10-3.

Earl Williams' leadoff homer in the bottom of the 10th gave Baltimore its win over the Yankees, although Houk still believes his club won it in the ninth.

New York carried a 4-3 lead into the ninth but pinch-hitter Boog Powell and Al Bumbry singled. With two out, Tommy Davis hit a chopper to second baseman Horace Clarke and Goetz said Davis beat the throw to first. Pinch-runner Curt Motton scored from second on the play.

"The runner was out by half a step and that cost us the game," Houk said. "What else can you say?"

In the previous inning, Weaver protested a call at second on which Kunkel called Yankee catcher Thurman Munson safe on a steal.

"Only Kunkel and I know I didn't curse at him," Weaver said later. "I swear to it. Kunkel knocked my hat off and he stepped on my foot and he ground it (the foot) into the ground. It wasn't an accident."

Williams' 21st homer provided Mike Cuellar, who went the distance, with his 16th victory against 13 losses. Wayne Granger, in relief of Lindy McDaniel, took his first loss without a win.

Rudy May issued a bases-loaded walk to Bert Campaneris with two out in the 13th inning to force home the winning run in Oakland's triumph over California. May seemed in control of a tight situation when he retired Bill North on a short fly for the second out but he walked Campaneris to allow pinch-runner John Odom to walk home from third.

A three-run double by Tony Oliva in the seventh inning lifted Minnesota past Kansas City and enabled Ray Corbin to stretch his record to 6-5.

Trevino Bit Irked

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus faced strong criticism from American Ryder Cup teammate Lee Trevino when he arrived here Monday night for the contest against Britain and Ireland at Muirfield, Scotland, starting Thursday.

The fast-talking Mexican was upset at Nicklaus for having arrived late.

But Nicklaus dismissed the criticism.

"I had discussed my travel arrangements during the PGA Championship and was told that there did not appear to be any reason why I should not report until Tuesday," Nicklaus said.

"I don't think the team is happy about it," said Trevino. "My wife has just had another baby and I would have loved to have stayed at home on Saturday and Sunday."

"His (Nicklaus) obligation to me is to be here and play on Tuesday morning," said the U.S. team's non-playing captain Jack Burke Jr. "His preparation is his own concern."

Dave Hill, another member of the 12-man squad, had not arrived. He was coming from Tokyo.

Burke was noncommittal about the outcome of the contest. Although the Americans are 3-1 favorites, Burke would not say how highly he ranked his team's chances.

"I have not seen all your players play," he said. "But there are 12 good players on each side, and that is what makes a contest."

Will Chamberlain Take Diego Offer?

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers, up in the air about the status of Wilt Chamberlain, acquired Elmore Smith from the Buffalo Braves for Jim McMillian Monday and will use the 7-foot center in their exhibition opener against Golden State at Santa Barbara, Calif., Tuesday night.

"We have no idea what Wilt is going to do," said a Laker spokesman. "We're thinking of the future as well as the present."

Chamberlain, 37, a 14-year veteran, is negotiating for a new contract with the Lakers through his attorney, Seymour Goldberg of Los Angeles. The 7-1, 280-pound giant led the Lakers to the NBA championship in 1971-72 and a runner-up finish to the New York Knicks in the 1972-73 playoffs. There is speculation he may accept a multi-million dollar offer from the ABA San Diego Conquistadors.

Smith, 24, was the third player picked in the 1971 college draft and was the No. 1 vote getter on the NBA's all-rookie team that season. He averaged 15.2 rebounds in his rookie year and 12.4 last season.

"I'm thrilled to death coming to Los Angeles," said the 250 pound Smith, who was on hand to take part in the Lakers' morning practice Monday. "I feel this team can go all the way this season and I want to play a part in its success."

Smith made it clear he wanted to be the Lakers' No. 1 center — even if Chamberlain signs a contract for his fifth season with Los Angeles.

"I'll be trying as hard as possible to win the starting center position," he declared.

In McMillian, the Braves are getting a 6-5 forward who was the Lakers' first round draft choice out of Columbia in 1970. In his second pro season, coach Bill Sharman gave McMillian Elgin Baylor's starting forward berth and the veteran superstar retired.

KHS Kept Its Psyche

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON

High school football coaches like to talk about psyche. You know . . . psyche, that intangible element that is so often responsible for winning or losing games. You know . . . psyche, the brother of Moe Mentum.

You just have to be psyched if you're going to win. The most talented team is capable of being wiped out if its not psyched. And your, shall we say, less gifted clubs are in danger of humiliation if they're not psyched.

Which brings us to Saturday's game at Dietz Stadium between Beacon and Kingston.

If there's one game all season at which psyche is at its peak it's the one played on opening day. Everybody starts out even. There are no first place teams and no last place teams. The haves are right up there with the have-nots. Until the game starts, that is. . .

Beacon High School was supposed to be a "have." Kingston was supposed to be a "possible have.' The kids all read the papers. The Beacon crowd knew it was favored and the KHS family was well aware of that, as well as the inferences concerning their team being a few games away. But the opening day psyche made it an even game.

Then Beacon intercepted Kingston's first pass for a touchdown. Then Beacon recovered a fumble on Kingston's next offensive play and turned that into a touchdown. Then Beacon picked up still another Kingston fumble. If there ever was a calling for a team to lose its psyche, roll over and play dead, it was now. And you really couldn't have blamed the harried Maroons. It was downright embarrassing.

That didn't happen, of course. Maybe it was something the Kingston coaches said on he sidelines, or maybe it was an unusually large portion of determination on the part of the players, or perhaps it was holding Beacon without a score after that third turnover. Probably it was a combination of the three. Somehow Kingston picked itself up and got back into the ball game.

The line blocked better. The offense started clicking. The defense stiffened. Yes, KHS nearly drew even and almost went on to win it.

And when it was all over and Kingston had lost, the players dragged themselves to the locker room. The post-game gloom hushed the cold enclosure below the stands. But not for long.

Coach Tony Badalato opened up a little black bag and secured a long needle. Then he reached for a large bottle marked "Psyche." He went in and told them they made mistakes. He also told them that despite all the mistakes, they had pushed this supposedly invincible Beacon team around and almost beaten it. He told them that one game didn't make a season.

And when Tony Badalato left the locker room, the echo of loud excited voices was behind him. The operation was a success. The players would go home disappointed but not demoralized. They would be ready for their next game.

Kingston High School's football team wasn't psyched out.

The happiest gridders in the Dutchess County Scholastic League Saturday were at John Jay High School. Not since the last day of the 1970 season had Jay won a football game.

MOOOSE SMALL FRY — The Kingston Moose Small Fry baseball team recently finished in second place for the second straight year in the New York State tournament in Owego. In the semi-finals, Ed Dombrowski notched a two-hitter with 12 strikeouts and hit a home run to drop Poughkeepsie, 1-0. Team members are: front row (L-R) Pat Riley, Randy Perry, Frank Regulski, Billy Gaffney, Winnie Gandy, Mike Brooks, Matt Laware and Tom Ferraro. Titans and Atlas Juniors Win

KINGSTON

Jim Brown lived up to his namesake Sunday afternoon as the Exchange Club Junior Football League began its 1973 season. In the second game of a Dietz Stadium doubleheader, Brown returned two punts for touchdowns and ran one PAT to lead the Atalas to a 20-0 victory over the Saturns.

The opening game was also a whitewash as the Titans scored twice through the air and twice on the ground to defeat the Apollos, 26-0.

Rain washed out the league's scheduled season opener Friday night.

Brown's heroics highlighted a second quarter in which the Atalas' scored all their points. First blood came on a one-yard plunge by Vince Ferraro with Brown getting his first points on the conversion run. Shortly thereafter, Brown gathered in a Saturn punt and raced 40 yards to score.

The extra point failed, but the Atalas defense again stopped the Saturns to force another boot. Brown did an instant replay, this time going 30 yards to send the winners into the intermission with a 20-point cushion.

The Titans showed a little more versatility in the first contest. Tom Rundle got things rolling early, going 60 yards to paydirt in the first period, then teammate Jonathan Davis bucked five yards after the winners regained possession.

Rundle boosted the lead in the second quarter, this time by picking off an Apollo aerial and running it back all the way to make it 19-0 at the break. The Titans wrapped it up convincingly with a final TD in the last quarter as Joe Sweeney gathered in a 20-yard reception and lugged it in for the score.

Hunt-Fish Day Is Proclaimed In the County

KINGSTON

In recognition of conservation practices initiated by the true sportsman, Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, has designated Saturday, Sept. 22, as Hunting and Fishing Day in Ulster County.

In making the designation, Savago said, "True sportsmen have been guardians of the environment for several decades before it became a household word and have contributed far more than interest and honest conservation practices. They have given large sums of money to conserve fish and wildlife."

Savago continued, "As Ulster County is fortunate in having some of the finest hunting and fishing areas in the state and nation, it is truly indicative that the sportsmen of Ulster County and New York State have physical evidence that these conservation practices have been fruitful and advantageous."

"The organized sportsmen of Ulster County which number more than 8,000 should be recognized at this time," Savago said.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The publicist of the San Diego Conquistadors, a pro basketball team without a coach, got a gasp from a sportswriters' luncheon Monday when he announced:

"I'd like to present Wilt Chamberlain!"

"I'd like to present him," Ans Dilley continued, "but unfortunately I don't have any idea where he is."

The American Basketball Association team, which has been without a coach since K.C. Jones quit, has made an offer to Chamberlain, who hasn't reported yet to the Los Angeles Lakers' training camp. Assistant Stan Albeck has been named acting coach and stands to get the job if Chamberlain says no.

Little things cost a lot.

It comes at you all at once. Back to school. Dresses and blouses and skirts for Cindy and Sara. Sweaters and pants and shirts for Seth. Not to mention shoes and socks and underwear and coats and hats and scarves for everybody.

But the money doesn't come all at once, does it? The money comes slowly.

So pay it that way. Charge it with Marine Midland Master Charge.® You can take up to three years to pay. But you have to pay a little each month, so it doesn't get away from you.

DEAD KING'S HONOR GUARD — Army officers form honor guard for catafalque of Sweden's King Gustav VI Adolf as the body lies in state at Helsingborg City Hospital in Sweden. Power Outage In Jamestown; Blame Raccoon JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP — A raccoon wandered into transformers behind the city's electric generating plant Monday night and blacked out nearly half the town.

Board of Public Utilities employes removed the "somewhat singed" animal and released it, apparently otherwise unhurt.

Power officials said the raccoon apparently walked into a transformer bay, causing a short circuit that cut all power to street lights and most homes in the south and west sides of town for nearly an hour.

About 2,200 homes were darkened by the masked intruder.

The transformers handle some 200,000 volts. Power officials were at a loss to explain how the animal survived. The equipment was not seriously damaged.

A witness said the raccoon "took off into the brush along the river, muttering to himself."

Radio City Music Hall, Musicians, Reach Accord

NEW YORK (UPI)—Striking musicians approved a tentative agreement with the management of Radio City Music Hall early today, and officials said the landmark theater will remain open until all details of the pact are worked out.

Details of the proposal were not immediately known. But a hall spokesman said a regular schedule will be maintained until stagehands also ratify the contract.

For the past week, the management had threatened to shut down "the showplace of the nation" for good if no agreement was reached.

Local 802, American Federation of Musicians, was asking a $120 per week raise over the three years of a new contract. Management had offered a $45 raise over the same period.

The hall said it expected a $1 million deficit this year because of dwindling attendance in the 6,200-seat theater.

To increase revenue, the hall wanted to schedule rock and jazz concerts instead of the family-type musical hits that became its regular fare.

The plan would cut the union's work year from 52 weeks to 40.

Local 1 of the federation, which represents the theater's stagehands, has not yet voted on the contract. Details of the contract will not be revealed until they agree to the terms, a hall spokesman said.

Last week, the American Guild of Variety Artists, representing the Rockettes, the corps de ballet and the chorus, agreed to a three-year contract that gives the management the right to lay off employes for up to 30 weeks.

Youths Arrested After Accident

ELLENVILLE

Two 15-year-old youths were arrested by Ellenville State Police Monday and charged with second degree grand larceny and third degree burglary after they allegedly stole a van-type Ellenville Central School school bus and became involved in a one vehicle accident in Ulster Heights.

State Police said the juveniles allegedly stole the bus from a garage at about 4:30 p.m. The youths, who fled on foot after what police described as a minor accident, where caught a short time later.

The juveniles, whose names were not released because of their ages, were both from the Napanoch area police said. Both were released in the custody of their parents pending action by juvenile authorities.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) An argument between you and one at home could become serious so make sure you take steps to avoid it. Make plans to handle your tasks more efficiently. Satisfy your curiosity through study.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY. . . he or she will be one of those charming young people who will do so much looking on both sides of any situation it will be difficult to make up the mind as to which is right. Timely Quotes

It seems like falling six stories would be a matter of a few seconds, that you'd have time to think of something. I wish I could describe the fall, but actually I do not remember it at all.
— Paul Wilson, Miami steelworker who survived six-story head-first fall.

The war is losing more and more of its point and having less and less meaning to any of the people involved . . . If you examine the record of the other side you get the unmistakable impression that they are not interested in negotiating but in what they call final total victory.
—Emory Swank as U.S ambassador to Cambodia.

If I am declared killed or suddenly mysteriously dead, you can infallibly conclude, with 100 per cent certainty, that I have been killed with the approval of the K.G.B. or by it.
—Aleksander I. Solzhenitszn, Nobel Prize-winning Russian novelist, claiming his life has been threatened by the Soviet secret police.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

A comet is an astonomical body composed of ice and dust which moves about the sun in an orbit that is usually elliptical in shape due to the gravitational effects of the planets. As it approaches the sun, a comet forms a gaseous tail, millions of miles long, which always points away from the sun because of solar winds, The World Almanac notes.

Here is another one of Bill McKenney's hands illustrating the suit preference signal.

West is allowed to hold the first diamond; he continues with the queen and then the jack after South ducks for the second time.

South has to win that third diamond and proceeds to lead and finesse the 10 of clubs.

East takes his king. His normal return is a heart which will allow South to romp home with nine tricks, but since West has played the nine of clubs East reads it as a preference signal for the higher suit. He leads a spade and down goes South.

This hand illustrates the weakness of those who get suit preference happy. The normal purpose of the nine of clubs play would be to announce an e[illegible] number of cards in the su[illegible]. How could East tell that it called for a spade return this time?

It is a matter of the diamond plays. West continued with his highest diamond at each turn to lead. That was an unmistakeable suit preference signal because if he wanted the normal heart return he would have th 10 of diamonds at trick two and continued with the jack at trick three.

Namath's Reaction to Packers . . .

'Those Cats Came On'

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The New York Jets narrowly averted their first shuout in two years Monday night but a determined Green Bay Packer defense prevented Joe Namath from enjoying that small consolation.

The Packers, rolling to a 23-7 victory in the season opener, dogged Namath for almost the entire game before Broadway Joe finally yielded to reserve Al Woodall, who took the Jets over the goal line on a 17-yard pass to rookie David Knight with 33 seconds left in the game.

"Man, after that first drive, those cats really came on," Namath said of he Packer defenders who sacked him three times for 35-yards and intercepted one of his 32 passes.

Namath finished with 16 completions for 203 yards but time after time was unable to sustain a drive long enough to score. Woodall's TD pass saved Namah from his first shutout in 75 pro games.

Namath got the Jets to the Packer 34 on his first drive but Bobby Howfield's 41-yard field goal attempt was wide and that was the last time the Jets threatened until late in the game when Namath directed a 70-yard drive to the Packer five-yard line.

But the threat ended in Namath's most frustrating series of the night. Three times he threw to his favorite target of the evening, Jerome Barkum, and three times cornerback Ken Ellis batted the ball away to keep the Jets scoreless.

"I thought Ellis wouldn't expect it three times in a row," a frustrated Namath said after the game.

The Packers apparently expected just about anything from Namath and that anticipation, plus crucial mistakes by the Jets, proved to be a winning combination for Green Bay.

"We know they can score from anywhere," said safety Jim Hill. "We just tried to do things to eliminate that possibility." Hill recovered two fumbles that led to Packer scores.

Chester Marcol kicked field goals of nine, 37 and 10 yards, the latter coming in the third quarter after a New York fumble. Another Jet fumble late in the first half led to the Packers' first touchdown on a 19-yard pass from Scott Hunter to Rich McGeorge.

The final Packer score, a one-yard run by John Brockington, who finished as the game's leading rusher with 73 yards, followed Ellis' interception of a Namath pass that bounced off Barkum.

Packer Coach Dan Devine explained how Ellis was awarded the game ball.

"When we were walking off the field," Devine said, "Gilly (Guard Gale Gillingham) said, 'is Ken Ellis ok?' I wasn't going to argue with him. Ellis got a big hand from the team so it was by popular decision."

Devine was asked how he felt about losing the shutout in the last minute.

"I would have even liked a one-point win," he said.

SHORT GAIN — Packers' MacArthur Lane (36) runs into Jets defense as he goes for a short gain in the first quarter of Monday night's game. Grabbing for Lane is tackle John Little (57). Green Bay won, 23-7. (UPI)

IN VAIN — Mets' second baseman Felix Millan dives for ball hit by Pittsburgh's Al Oliver in first inning of Monday night's game. The ball went past Millan into right field for a single. Pirates KO'd Tom Seaver and went on to post a 10-3 win. (UPI)

Tell Willie It's September

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —Somebody ought to tell Willie Stargell that it's September.

The Pirates' slugging outfielder put on quite a show Monday night as be banged his 40th homer and three other extra base hits, driving in four runs and leading Pittsburgh to a 10-3 victory over the New York Mets.

"Normally, I tail off in September," said Stargell, who has 23 hits in 48 at bats since Danny Murtaugh was named manager Sept. 6. "The last three years I just haven't done a thing after August but I'm in the grove this year and I can't tell you why."

Does that mean that he should be considered for the National League's Most Valuable Player award?

"I'll never get keyed up for the MVP award again. I thought I should had had it in 1971 and they gave it to Torre, even though they said I carried the team. The year before that they gave it to Bench 'cause they said he carried Cincinnati. Last year Billy Williams should have gotten it but Bench gets it again. I don't care who gets it this year. It won't bother me like it has the last few years."

Teammate Richie Zisk, who also homered last night along with Rich Hebner and Milt May, disagrees

"If ever a man can carry a club it's Willie And he sure carried us this year How can they give it (MVP award) to anyone else"

Zisk, meanwhile, is happy for himself too "Manager Murtaugh made my year when he told me yesterday that from now on I'm the Pirates' rightfielder I can't tell you what a thrill it was to hear that"

Stargell, whose homer, triple and two doubles broke a National League record for four extra base hits in a game the fourth time in his career, tripled in the first run. Doubles by Zisk and May made it 2-0 in the second. Stargell and Hebner slammed back-to-back homers in the third after a walk, making it 5-0

Triples by Dave Schneck and Bud Harrelson keyed a three-run Met rally in the fifth but the Pirates came back with three more when Stargell doubled. Zisk homered and Dal Maxvill doubled home May, who had singled Stargell's double produced a sixth-inning run and May homered in the seventh

Bruce Kison, who lasted five innings before the game was held up an hour and 15 minutes by rain, picked up his second win against no losses since being recalled from the minors on Sept. 1. Relievers Jim McKee and Chris Zachery shut out the Mets the rest of the way.

Met ace Tom Seaver, who had beaten the Pirates four times this year and owned a 16-4 lifetime record against them, suffered his 10th loss against 17 wins as he lasted only three innings.
